ED grills Rahul for about 10 hours in Herald case

Questions him in two phases; Cong leader meets Sonia in hospital

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi gestures as he leaves for the Enforcement Directorate's office in New Delhi on Monday | SHEKHAR YADAV

THE Enforcement Directorate on Monday grilled Congress leader Rahul Gandhi over the alleged misappropriation of funds in the National Herald case amid vociferous protests by the party across the country claiming political vendetta.

Rahul was questioned for almost 10 hours in two phases through the day. Three senior officials of the ED participated in the questioning. "The team consists of two Assistant Directors and one Deputy Director," said a senior ED official. Rahul also submitted a written statement under Section 50 of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act. He has been asked to appear again for questioning on Tuesday.

The ownership of the National Herald published by the Associated Journals Limited (AJL) was later transferred to Young Indian Pvt Ltd, a deal that is now under the lens.

Accompanied by sister Priyanka Gandhi Vadra and party workers, Rahul reached the probe agency's office on APJ Abdul Kalam Road amid heavy police deployment around 11.10 am. Priyanka sat with Rahul in a vehicle as the convoy of seven SUVs, escorted by armed CRPF personnel, entered the ED office. Only Rahul was let in.

Around 2.10 pm, Rahul left the ED office for lunch and went to meet his mother and Congress president Sonia Gandhi, who is convalescing from Covid at the Sir Ganga Ram hospital. He took permission to make the visit. Rahul then joined the probe team again around 4 pm and stayed on till late night.

To manage the march the party took out from its 24, Akbar Road headquarters to the ED office before Rahul presented himself for questioning, the police had placed barricades at several places en route. All Congress bigwigs hit the streets in support of Rahul.

A large number of party workers were taken under preventive custody for violating Section 144 CrPC that bans the assembly of more than four persons, which was imposed in central Delhi. Earlier in the day, the police had advised people to avoid certain stretches in wake of the Congress march.

The ED has summoned Sonia to appear before it on June 23 in connection with the case.

Shakti Kapoor's son held in B'luru for drug use

PRAVEEN KUMAR @ Bengaluru

THE Halasuru police on Sunday midnight detained Bollywood actor Shakti Kapoor's 37-year-old son Siddhant Kapoor aka DJ Bullzeye during a raid on a late night party at The Park hotel near Trinity Circle.

Siddhant was among five others who were allegedly found to have consumed drugs. The police subjected 35 people at the party to blood tests and the results of five including Siddhanth's returned positive for drug use. He was arrested even as he was playing music at the party that was still on. He is a regular DJ at The Park hotel.

All the five were released on station bail. They have to appear before police whenever they are called, said a police officer.

The hotel clarified all guests who come to stay or attend late night parties are frisked by bouncers. However at the time of frisking, no drugs were found on the DJ or others who were arrested. It is suspected that they might have come to the party after consuming drugs elsewhere, they said. But the police who searched the hotel after the arrests found drugs in a dustbin at the hotel.

The others arrested are Akhil Soni, a business manager, Harjot Singh, operational head of a logistics startup, Hani Rafeeque, a digital marketing professional, and Akhil, a freelance photographer.

"The Halasuru police raided the party on Sunday midnight. Over 100 people, most of them outsiders, were at the party. Thirty-five were subjected to testing, and of them five including the DJ tested positive," Dr Bheemashankar S Guled, DCP (East) said. P3

RETAIL INFLATION COOLS, BUT STILL 7%

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

A month after the RBI did some heavy lifting and the Centre cut fuel excise rates, the consumer price index (CPI) based-inflation fell to 7.04% in May. In the month before, it had hit an eight-year high of 7.78%.

But compared to May last year's figure of 6.3%, the inflation now is very much on the higher side. In fact, this is the fifth straight month when the CPI inflation is above the RBI's upper band of 6%.

Interestingly, rural inflation, which was higher than urban inflation in April, slipped below urban inflation in May. Rural and urban inflations stood at 7.01% and 7.08% respectively in May as against 8.38% and 7.09% in April. However, major components of the CPI basket, like food and beverages, pan and tobacco, clothing and footwear and fuel and light witnessed a sequential rise.

In a bid to moderate inflation, the RBI on June 8 hiked the rate at which it lends to commercial banks by 50 basis points to 4.9%. An SBI research report sought to join issue with critics of the RBI's intervention, saying, "We believe RBI is much ahead of the curve in controlling inflation."

Cong protest, zero-traffic corridor for Prez's convoy gridlock B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BENGALUREANS were forced to wait for long hours in traffic jams in various parts of the city on Monday due to two reasons – the zero-traffic corridor created for President Ram Nath Kovind's convoy, and the protest staged by Congress workers against the Enforcement Directorate, for summoning Rahul Gandhi in New Delhi.

President Kovind was to visit Rashtriya Military School on Museum Road for its platinum jubilee celebrations, and his route was fixed from HAL Airport Road to the school. The Congress protest site was Shanthinagar. However, the ripple effect was seen across the city, and the two events kept police on tenterhooks, right from 10am.

Traffic signals up to MG Road and Dickenson Road were easily managed, but police feared traffic spilling from Brigade Road, MG Road and other areas, as the Congress protest in the central business district area threw city traffic completely out of gear.

Congress leaders from each of the BBMP wards, and some from neighbouring districts had arranged tempos, vans and private buses. Traffic snarls were reported in areas like Shanthinagar, Double Road, Richmond Circle, Lalbagh East and West Gate, Wilson Garden and other adjoining areas, while there was traffic congestion on Old Airport Road, HAL, Hebbal, Yelahanka, Outer Ring Road and surrounding areas.

As a result, hundreds of vehicles got stuck at various signals in and around Double Road. Many buses plying between Bengaluru and Hosur were stranded, with traffic inching along from 11am to 1.30pm.

The Congress protest was led by KPCC President DK Shivakumar and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah.

MLA stuck on road too

A routine 10-minute drive from his Basavanagudi office to Vidhana Soudha took over 50 mins for BJP MLA Uday Garudachar, due to the Congress protest. "I was heading to Vidhana Soudha, and as my driver failed to check the map today, we got stuck with hundreds of other vehicles. Even ambulances had a tough time and public had to make way. The stretch from Basavanagudi to Vidhana Soudha takes 15 minutes maximum, but today. I was delayed by almost an hour," said Garudachar, Chickpet MLA.

PRESIDENT Ram Nath Kovind said the rising number of women in the armed forces, including in combat roles, is a good development.

The President, who is on a two-day official visit to Karnataka, inaugurated the platinum jubilee celebrations of the Rashtriya Military School here on Monday. Lauding girls for reaching new heights and setting new records in various fields, he said, "As the supreme commander, I am happy to see the rising number of women in the armed forces, including in combat roles. I am happy to note that, recently, Captain Abhilasha Barak became the first woman officer to join the Army Aviation Corps as a combat aviator."

Noting that the Rashtriya Military Schools were conceived with the aim of providing quality education to the wards of Army personnel but later the schools were opened to civilians, Kovind said that he was happy to know that girl cadets are going to get admission into these schools across the country from this academic year. "As you all know, starting this year, the gates of the National Defence Academy have also been opened for girls. I am confident that the girl cadets, joining this prestigious school, will contribute in defending the nation and play their role in nation-building," he said.

Further, the President said Karnataka has emerged as a leading centre of modern education and technology and noted that the state got the top rank among all the states in the latest 'India Innovation Index'. "Bengaluru has emerged as a globally comparable centre of learning, technology, and enterprise," he added.

Spit effect: Clamour up to clear Cubbon Park, Lalbagh of hawkers

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AS demand to remove hawkers from Lalbagh and Cubbon Park grows loud, officials have said that every time they try to shift hawkers, running stalls in the 300 acres Botanical Garden from the area, there has been political intervention, and added that they come back again after staying away for a few days.

Two days ago, some morning walkers spotted a 21-year-old vendor, a resident of Someshwaranagar, reportedly spitting in cooking oil.

As other walkers learned about the incident, the Cubbon Park Walkers Association has now demanded that sale of eatables inside the park should be banned as it might lead to hawkers thriving in the area.

"A representation will be handed over to higher officials to instruct the Deputy Director of both the Cubbon Park and Lalbagh to strictly follow the rules, and deploy more security personnel to stop hawkers from entering the park," said S Umesh, president, Cubbon Park Walkers Association.

One of the senior officials, on condition of anonymity said, "There are some 12 to 15 hawkers in the Lalbagh area who are doing business for many years. Once, when some were asked to leave, about 5,000 members from a particular section protested alleging harassment by authorities. There is always political intervention."

Everyday, around a thousand visitors throng Lalbagh Botanical Gardens. With the government announcing to hold its Independence Day flower show, over 2 lakh people are expected to attend the event from August 6. Following complaints of hawker menace, there may be crackdown on hawkers.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

14th June : We're now moving from one major lunar phase to another. All astrological lore indicates that moments of transition are a moment to pause for thought, take a quick break and recharge our batteries. It is actually an ideal time for lazy and unmotivated people, who suddenly find they have an excuse to do nothing! Ambitious types, meanwhile, may pause for thought.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Mars has now commenced a new cycle which is going to lift your morale and give you a massive shot in the arm - but only if you turn your attention to all unfinished business and left-over tasks. The burning question is: how can you possibly make the most of all your many talents and abundant energy?

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
From now on you will have to move very carefully, flitting about behind the scenes, doing your best without being spotted! The coming phase in your life is one for discretion, so plan accordingly. Also, if a friend or partner lets you down, don't be too hard on them: they might have no choice.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
This should be a somewhat sensitive day, but no less confident for that. The golden rule is never to take offence, and always to realise that little slights may be unintended. Partners really are in need of your care and understanding, so you'll have to be patient.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You are undoubtedly well aware of certain emotional undercurrents, and it's thanks to your intuitive skills that you're more in tune than many other people with the choices that should now be faced. That doesn't mean that you'll come up with the right answers, though, so tread carefully.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Don't expect any let-up of daily pressures in the long-term, even if today's stars are more relaxed than usual. You should realise that any tension can work to your advantage, giving you the excuse to make long-overdue improvements, especially at work.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
This is one occasion when partners may be better equipped to take control. At work employers should be listened to and obeyed, although they in their turn should recognise your role as a conciliator. It's all a matter of mutual respect - and of striking the right balance.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The best relationships, at the moment, are those based on joint interests, and the happiest social life is that built on good conversation. Consider the legal situation, and make sure that, above all else, you know your rights. And don't give anyone the wrong idea about your intentions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The cycle you're now entering is one which warns you about the danger of burning yourself out, but offers you the chance to get your physical well-being together, cleaning up your diet, improving your exercise and tackling niggling chronic complaints.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Partners and business associates will eventually reveal facts which you think you ought to know. However, when it comes to dealing with people in authority, extracting the truth may be like getting blood out of a stone. That doesn't mean that you shouldn't continue to try!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Areas of your life which are now being spotlighted indicate exactly where you should streamline your affairs and how you should reorganise your relationships. Consider any and all changes at home, no matter how radical. You never know - they might receive a warm welcome.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Circumstances beyond your control may now force you to abandon certain schemes, or at least reach a major compromise. Family plans are still in a state of some uncertainty, while domestic entertaining looks favourable. Take advantage of any opportunities for pleasure!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Other people may not intend to mislead or deceive you, and what you mistake for opposition could, in fact, be support. If someone seems to be standing in the way, it may be that they are somehow forcing you to make a response which is very much more mature than in the past. They may even deserve your thanks!

Cases up, but not fourth wave yet

Hospitalisation low, deaths nil; Minister advises citizens to mask up, follow Covid protocol

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

THE increase in Covid-19 cases in Bengaluru cannot be termed as the onset of the fourth wave yet, Karnataka Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said here on Monday.

He was speaking after a review meeting with the Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee, to take stock of the Covid and dengue situations in the state, that there should be no fear over increasing cases, though people should ensure that they follow Covid appropriate behaviour to prevent further spread.

"There has been an uptick in Covid-19 cases in Bengaluru. However, the severity of the illness has been less, and there are no deaths. Hospitalisation is also low, so this cannot be termed the fourth wave yet. The situation is being closely monitored," Dr Sudhakar told the media after the meeting.

He also reiterated that people should take their booster doses, especially those with comorbidities. He requested parents to ensure that children above 12 years of age should also be vaccinated. Warning that masks are the best way to prevent the spread of Covid-19 and the onset of another wave, he said wearing of masks should be compulsorily followed, especially in closed and public spaces. The state health department has increased the Covid-19 testing target to 30,000, though numbers are increasing only in Bengaluru and not other towns, Sudhakar said.

He also expressed concern over an increase in dengue cases, and said a separate meeting will be held with BBMP officials, regarding control of dengue cases.

Sudhakar also reviewed protocol mentioned by TAC for International Yoga Day on June 21 in Mysuru, where Prime Minister Narendra Modi is expected to participate. He said a separate meeting will be held with the organisers in Mysuru, to review the Covid-19 protocol.

The minister advised start genome sequencing be started immediately in Victoria Hospital's department of microbiology. He said the lab would facilitate quicker identification of new variants, if any, according to a senior TAC member.

Dengue cases on the rise in B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AMID the Covid-19 fourth wave scare, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has said that the city has so far reported 38 dengue cases this year till date.

BBMP, Special Commissioner, solid waste management, Harish Kumar on Monday said most of the dengue cases were reported from Dasarahalli.

He, however, said no cholera cases were reported so far in the city.

Addressing the media, Kumar said samples from 100 public taps, 515 public borewells, 471 RO plant and 124 eateries have been collected and assessed. Also, 2,03,403 homes and 2,98,962 sites have been surveyed where 3,153 larvae-breeding points have been identified so far. Kumar informed that constant monitoring and testing is being done across the city to keep a check on Covid-19 and dengue.

Directives have also been given to health officials to ensure that those with any symptoms are tested and given immediate treatment. Primary health centres have also been told to increase Covid-19 testing.

On solid waste management, Kumar said a survey is being done to identify sites where waste processing units can be set up. "Due to space constraint, 1 unit for every 3-4 wards was planned. So 90 were planned for 198 wards. But with the delimitation exercise of 243 wards, the number will increase," he said.

He added that tenders worth Rs 6,18,46,941 crore have been floated where the contractor will have to ensure that garbage is collected from homes, there are zero black spots and the space is utilised by public for at least six months. The tender will include garbage vulnerable point elimination, transformation of the area and ICT monitoring.

Kumar said that there are 1,479 daily black spots and 118 continuous black spots, which have been reduced now to 76. He said that the Palike was also looking for spaces on the city's outskirts to set up waste processing units.

RESEARCHERS at the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) have potentially solved the problem of injuries caused due to an abnormal gait with the help of a 3D printed 'snapping' footwear. Collaborating with the Karnataka Institute of Endocrinology and Research (KIER), the researchers have developed a pair of footwear that help distribute uneven pressure caused by an abnormal gait.

The sandals are specifically designed for diabetic patients who have a slower rate of healing as well as suffer from diabetic peripheral neuropathy or diabetic nerve damage.

Diabetic patients who have lost sensation in their feet are often at a higher risk of ulcers, calluses and other complications due to an abnormal gait that puts extra pressure on certain parts of the feet. This, combined with the low rate of healing, leads to infections that can eventually result in amputation.

To combat this, the researchers developed the footwear with 'snapping' arches installed in the soles to allow pressure to be evenly distributed and lessen the chance of injuries caused.

When a certain amount of pressure is added, the arches within the sole snap into an inverted shape. While most therapeutic footwear address this issue with memory foam, the problem comes with offloading the pressure. The arches within the shoes soles are able to snap back into shape after pressure has been exerted on them.

"When we remove the pressure, (the arch) will automatically come back to its initial position — this is what is called self-offloading. We consider the individual's weight, foot size, walking speed and pressure distribution to arrive at the maximum force that has to be offloaded," Priyabrata Maharana, first author and one of the researchers said.

To commercialise the footwear and make it widely accessible, the researchers are currently collaborating with two Bengaluru based healthcare start-ups — Foot Secure and Yostra Labs.

AUTO DRIVER CRUSHED TO DEATH IN CHAIN ACCIDENT

Bengaluru: An auto-rickshaw driver was killed and four vehicles were damaged in a freak chain accident that occurred near Satellite Bus Station in Byatarayanapura on Mysuru Road, on Monday morning. The deceased was identified as Girisagar (43), a resident of Srigandha Kaval. Police said a speeding Canter coming from Hosaguddadahalli towards Bapuji Nagar, rammed a tempo ahead of it. Due to the impact, the tempo hit an auto, which banged into a BMTC Volvo bus moving ahead. "The impact was such that the auto was crushed between the two heavy vehicles, and it was a tough task to bring the driver out, as he was stuck in the mangled vehicle. The Canter driver was secured," Byatarayanapura traffic police said. ENS

Woman slips on Metro station floor, breaks ankle

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

A 50-year-old homemaker recently slipped on the granite floor at the Rajarajeshwari Nagar Metro Station and suffered a fracture on her left ankle. She is now with a fully bandaged foot and on a five-week bedrest. Falls on the shiny granite floors inside Metro stations is a regular occurrence, say some commuters.

The mishap occurred on June 6 night when N Vanishree was returning home in RR Nagar on a Metro train after alighting at KSR railway station following a visit to Harihar. Her husband KR Anantha was accompanying her.

Her son Varun Kaushik, a software engineer, said, "Around 9 pm last Monday, I had gone to pick up my parents from the Metro station when I got to know she had fallen in the small passageway that leads from the R R Nagar Metro station to the road. A row of black granites here is more smooth than the rest. When my mother walked on it, she slipped and broke her ankle."

When she was taken to a hospital the next day, she was diagnosed with a fracture of 2 inches deep. "A Metro staffer said he has witnessed quite a few falls on the slippery floor," Kaushik added.

BMRCL Managing Director Anjum Parwez said the RR Nagar station would be inspected on Tuesday. Rani Karthick, a regular Metro commuter, said she had a bad fall at the Mysore Road Metro station and has had a narrow escape at other stations. "I feel the floors are slippery largely on the Purple Line," she said.

BMRCL Chief Public Relations Officer B L Yashvanth Chavan said he had not received any complaints from the public about the flooring.

7 MDMA tablets, ganja found in bin

"ALL the five are outsiders, including Siddhant Kapoor who is from Mumbai. All of them will be arrested. The party was open to the public and it was outsourced to another agency. When the hotel premises were searched, one packet with seven MDMA tablets and another packet with 5-10 gm of ganja were found in a dustbin. Somebody must have disposed them of either before or after the raid," the DCP said.

The police have recovered the CCTV footage of the premises, and if anybody is seen in the video throwing the drugs into the dustbin, he/she will be arrested as a drug peddler. The party was open to all, and if it was only through invitation, the organisers would have been held accountable, he said. If there are violations under excise rules, the police will take action over that too. The DJ was subjected to medical tests as he was behaving suspiciously, the police said.

"It was not a rave, but a regular party that has been going on for many years. All guests were thoroughly frisked by bouncers. There are both male and female bouncers to check the guests. At the time of checking, no such substance was found with anybody, including the DJ. There are awareness posters put up in the hotel about repercussions of drugs. The guests are requested to inform the security in case they come across any suspicious activities. We suspect that those arrested for consumption of drugs must have come to the party after consuming them elsewhere. The hotel has permission to run the late night parties till 12.30 am. The raid happened around midnight and the party was stopped. The DJ performs at such parties often. The hotel has no role in the drugs issue," the hotel staff said.

The Halasuru police have registered a case against the five for consumption of drugs.

WOMAN FOUND MURDERED IN LODGE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

A 22-year-old woman was found murdered in a lodge in Yeshwantpur police station limits. Police are on the lookout for a man who had brought her to the lodge. The deceased was identified as Deepa Padan, and police are on the lookout for the suspect, Anmol Rathan Kandar, who works with a footwear showroom. Both the victim and suspect are from Odisha.

Police said Anmol and Deepa had checked into a room in Bangalore Residency, near Yeshwanptur Railway Station, on the evening of June 9. The next day, a woman came to the hotel and said she wanted to meet Deepa. When the staff took her to the room and rang the doorbell, there was no response. When they pushed the door, which was not locked, they found Deepa lying dead on the bed.

"Investigations revealed that she was been smothered to death by the killer, with a pillow. The hotel staff is not aware of when Anmol escaped. Both Anmol and Deepa are married, and were having an illicit affair. When Anmol learnt that Deepa was having an affair with another man, it is suspected that he brought her to the lodge and murdered her. We are on the lookout for him," the Yashwantpur police added.

Claims of cash changing hands mar Council polls

EXPRESS NEWS CENTRE
@Bengaluru

THE biennial election to the Karnataka Legislative Council from two graduates and teachers constituencies each went off peacefully on Monday, recording an average polling of 73.25 per cent overall.

The electorates from graduates and teachers community exercised their franchise in about 607 polling stations set up across four constituencies in 11 districts of the state amid sporadic incidents of cash being allegedly distributed at some places against the votes.

The counting of the votes will be held on Wednesday with the prestige of the ruling BJP dispensation, led by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai, being at stake. The teachers constituencies witnessed good response as both the seats witnessed over 80 per cent polling compared to the graduates constituencies.

The West Teachers constituency, from which the former chairman of the Legislative Council Basavaraja Horatti has been seeking election for the 8th consecutive term, has recorded as high as 84 per cent. The electorates – teachers from Dharwad, Uttara Kannada, Gadag and Haveri districts -- showed enthusiasm to exercise their franchise. The prestige of Horatti, who was with the JD(S) and jumped to the BJP to contest the polls, is also at stake.

Cong workers protest against ED notice to Sonia and Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THOUSANDS of Congress workers with their leaders staged a demonstration here on Monday, expressing their solidarity with AICC president Sonia Gandhi and Lok Sabha member Rahul Gandhi, who have been summoned for questioning by the Enforcement Directorate in the National Herald case.

"After Narendra Modi became the Prime Minister, all independent agencies, including ED, CBI, IT, RBI and NSSO (National Sample Survey Office), have turned into puppets dancing to the tunes of the government," alleged Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah.

"Sonia and Rahul are being fixed in a false case. The newspaper has contributed immensely to the freedom struggle. We will stand like a rock behind our leaders," he asserted.

Former deputy chief minister Dr G Parameshwara questioned the necessity of reopening a case that was closed five years ago after it was found that the trustees, including Sonia and Rahul, had no role in alleged money laundering.

"Leader of Opposition in the Rajya Sabha Mallikarjuna Kharge became the managing trustee of the newspaper just three months ago. Yet, he was grilled for over six hours recently. What money he might have swindled in that short time and what is the necessity of interrogating him," he questioned.

Leader of Opposition in the Council BK Hariprasad attacked former Union minister Subramanian Swamy for filing a private complaint with ED against Sonia and Rahul.

"He just wants to harass them. Though ED found that they had no role to play after a probe in 2017, their harassment continued after 2019," he remarked.

Hariprasad warned that when Congress comes back to power at the Centre, it will take a serious note of harassment meted out its leaders.

The protest was part of a nationwide strike by Congress workers.

Thousands of party workers from across the state had gathered at the Lal Bagh main gate for the demonstration. But before they could take out a procession to lay siege to the ED office at Shanthinagar, the police stopped them.

Don't punish us for admin's mistakes: Contractors

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE contractors' association in Karnataka has slammed the government for imposing a penalty on the contractors for delays in completing projects.

Karnataka Contractors Association President D Kempanna said it is not fair to punish the contractors for mistakes committed by the administration. "It is not contractors who are responsible for the delays... it is the administration," Kempanna told TNIE.

Delay in completing projects on time is causing a burden on the state exchequer and the government is imposing a penalty of 1% to 7% of the cost of the remaining project on the contractors. On Sunday, Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol said that to expedite projects by bringing in discipline among the contractors, the government is imposing penalties on them if the projects are delayed. This penalty clause applies to all ongoing projects. The penalty will not be imposed if the contractors give a genuine reason for the delay.

The contractors' association and the government were at the loggerheads over delay in clearing bills. "They have to make the payments within two months. But they do not make the payments even two to three years after completion of projects. What penalty they will pay for such delays?" Kempanna said, questioning the government's move to impose a penalty on them for delays.

Energy Dept on course to reduce cost of electric vehicles

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TO encourage people to purchase electric vehicles and reduce the dependency on fossil fuel, the Energy Department is holding talks with the Ministry of Transport, the Finance Department as well as the manufacturing sector on how the cost of vehicles can be reduced.

At present, the subsidy for electric vehicles rests with the manufacturers and a limited is passed on to consumers. But to encourage more vehicles on the roads, the subsidy and benefit needs to be passed on to the customers. With this in mind, the Bangalore Electricity Supply Corporation Limited (Bescom) officials had recently held a workshop with companies.

The cost of EVs costs anything between Rs 1 lakh to Rs 1 crore. But the cost of the battery alone is around 40 per cent of the vehicle. The department is aiming to reduce this to cut the cost of the vehicle by 20- 30 per cent so that more people are buy them. Many are also burdened with the after sale services and maintenance. The feedback they are giving to their friends is also becoming a deterrent.

According to records at present, there are 2-3 lakh EVs (two and four wheelers) on Bengaluru roads and much less in other districts. As the Bescom is setting up more charging stations, they are also holding talks with companies to understand how the cost can be reduced.

A senior energy department official said the cost of vehicles is high because of the high battery cost and also limited demand. "Also even as many companies are manufacturing EVs, but the quantity produced is less thus the cost of sales is high. The cost is demand based. So we are at present laying thrust on setting up more charging stations and creating an infrastructure network which should encourage people for purchasing EVs," the official said.

Taj Group may take over iconic Lalith Mahal Palace in Mysuru

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

THE iconic Lalith Mahal Palace in Mysuru is likely to be handed over to Taj Hotels, the Mumbai-based luxury hotel chain. A Cabinet Sub-Committee meeting on Tuesday will decide the fate of the iconic building, constructed by Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar.

Lalith Mahal came into the State government's control in 1973, but the very next year, was leased to India Tourism Development Corporation (ITDC) of the Union government. However, a few years ago, even before its lease period expired, it was handed back to the Karnataka government. At present, it is run by Jungle Lodges and Resorts of the Tourism department.

It is now proposed to hand the landmark to a private company. NV Prasad, Secretary, Tourism department, told TNIE that the Cabinet Sub-Committee meeting called on Tuesday will be headed by Tourism Minister Anand Singh. "They will decide the next course of action," he said.

The foundation of Lalith Mahal, located at the foothills of Chamundi Betta in Mysuru, was laid by Krishnaraja Wadiyar in 1921, and was built to host special guests of the Maharaja of Mysuru. At present, a room costs between Rs 3,000 and Rs 30,000 per night.

Sources from the department said the Taj Group is expected to take over the contract for maintenance and operation. This also means the room and suite rents will be higher. "The purpose is to woo international travellers visiting Mysuru," sources said. The meeting will also decide about the lease terms and conditions.

Meanwhile, Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation (KSTDC) Chairman Ka.Pu Siddalingaswamy said he is clueless about the proposal of privatisation. "We are not invited for the meeting on Tuesday. I personally feel this is a government property and it should remain with the government. In many cases, we've seen that once it is given on contract, they go to court and delay returning the property to the government," he said. He said that Lalith Mahal, in spite of the pandemic and other issues, was not facing any loss.

Minister Anand Singh was not available for comment.

AS MODI COMES SOUTH, YOGA MAT PRICES GO NORTH

KARTHIK K K @Mysuru

WITH Prime Minister Narendra Modi-led central government under fire for rising fuel prices and cost of essential commodities over the last couple of months, there has been a new addition to the list. Ahead of Modi's visit to Mysuru for International Yoga Day, the prices of yoga mats have increased.

With just a week left for the PM's visit, brisk preparations are underway. People across all sections including students, senior citizens and yoga enthusiasts are practising to take part in the yoga event on the Mysuru Palace premises along with Modi, who will be leading the event on June 21. With around 15,000 people expected to take part in the event, there has been an increase in demand for yoga mats which are compulsory. Though yoga mats of good qualities were sold at a price ranging between Rs 180 and Rs 250 a month or two ago, the prices have jumped two fold as a mat now costs between Rs 400 and Rs 520.

People purchase yoga mats ahead of the International Yoga Day in Mysuru

Wholesale dealers in the city said that as soon as they heard about Modi's visit, the dealers in Shivarampet and other stationery shop, and sports shop owners have sourced at least 1,000 yoga mats each hoping to make brisk business.

The prices have now become a concern for parents with a young kid who aspires to take part in the yoga event is pestering them for a new mat.

Meanwhile, a wholesale dealer in Mannar's market admitted the fact that the price has been doubled but predicted that it will gradually come down after the event as the demand has spiked only because of the excitement surrounding the PM's visit.

Ayushman Bharat digital tech centre comes to B'luru

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE National Health Authority (NHA) will set up its Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission (ABDM) tech centre at Arogya Soudha in Bengaluru, which is expected to give a significant push to the mission's progress in Karnataka that has been lagging so far. Bengaluru is being chosen to house the ABDM tech centre as it is the digital hub with most of its service providers from the city.

Dr R S Sharma, Chief Executive Officer of NHA, which commenced the ABDM in September 2021, said at the NHA-NASSCOM Conclave 2022 on Ayushman Bharat Digital Mission – Revolutionizing Digital Health, on Monday that Karnataka is ranked 13th in India in the number of Ayushman Bharat Health Accounts (ABHAs). Andhra Pradesh is leading with 2.99 crore ABHAs among the all-India figure of 22.33 crore, while Karnataka has only 64,42,081 ABDM accounts. The highest number of accounts created are in COWIN followed by Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY).

Of the 80,957 verified health care facilities registered with the Health Facility Registry (HFR) in India, Uttar Pradesh has the highest with 26,824, while Karnataka is way behind ranked 25th with just 12 verified health care facilities, that too with 97.37 percent being government institutions.

Sharma said of the 19,467 health care professionals registered with the Health Professionals Registry (HPR) in India — Andhra Pradesh with the highest contingent of 9,842 — Karnataka has only 96, and ranked 15th and 76.17 per cent are government professionals.

Karnataka Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said, "We look forward to implement the ABDM in a mission mode in Karnataka by giving it speed, scalability and support to achieve the aim of healthcare for all."

Gold smuggling case accused Swapna Suresh on Monday approached the Kerala High Court seeking to quash the new case registered against her on charges of provocation with an intention to cause a riot, and criminal conspiracy

3 Kerala women sold to Kuwaiti family rescued

AJAY KANTH @Kochi

THREE women from Kerala, who were sold to Kuwaiti families by a human trafficking racket for a price of ₹10 lakh each, were rescued and brought back to the state, thanks to timely intervention by a group of Malayalis in the Gulf country.

M K Gassali, a Dubai-based Kannur native who is the kingpin of the racket, allegedly demanded a ransom of ₹3 lakh to release the women when their families approached him. Then the husband of one of the women approached the Malayali group and sent its members whatsapp videos and voice clips featuring the torture the trio were facing. The collective approached the Kuwaiti authorities forcing Gassali to release them.

Police said the racket had pasted notices at public spaces including in Kochi and Kollam inviting applications for the job of baby sitters in Kuwait. The women approached the racket after seeing the posters and fell for the offer because the recruitment was free and no money was collected from them even for visa processing and air ticket. The husband of one of the victims said at the time of recruitment his wife was promised a monthly salary of ₹ 60,000. In order to bypass Indian regulations, the racket took the women to Sharjah on a visit visa and later shifted them to Kuwait by road, police said. In Kuwait, they were sold to rich Arab families for Rs 10 lakh each. The victims realised, to their horror, a few days later that they were trapped.

They were subjected to torture by their new 'owners'. Thankfully, they had their mobile phones with them, and hence they could contact their families.

On receiving the messages, the husband of one of the victims lodged a complaint with the police and the Ministry of Home Affairs through a Kochi-based lawyer, Nishin George V B. He also approached the Malayali group in Kuwait who ensured the release of the three women.

Stop discussion on Mekedatu: Stalin to Modi

Wants Cauvery authority not to talk about project till issues are heard, decided by SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Chennai

CHIEF Minister MK Stalin wrote to Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday requesting him to instruct the Ministry of Jal Shakti (MoJS) to advise the chairman of the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) to desist from taking up any discussion on the Mekedatu project till the issues are heard and decided by the Supreme Court.

In the letter, Staling recalled his memorandum to the PM on June 17 last year, and requested him to advise the Jal Shakthi minister not to give any concurrence to the proposal of Karnataka for constructing a reservoir at Mekedatu across the Cauvery. Besides, he recalled an unanimous resolution of the TN Assembly on March 21 this year, opposing the project as well the move of Karnataka allocating Rs 1,000 crore for it. The Jal Shakthi minister was also informed about the resolution, he wrote.

He further added that the Tamil Nadu government was assured that no approval would be given for the proposed Mekedatu project without getting the concurrence of the state.

Highlighting the background of the establishment of the CWMA, he said, "The CWMA was specifically constituted, as per the verdict of the SC, only for implementing the orders of the SC dated February 16, 2018." He further said,

Stalin said CWMA has proposed to discuss the DPR of the Mekedatu project in its 16th meeting to be held on June 17, 2022, and the step has caused great anguish among the farmers of the Cauvery delta.

Police and relatives of the baby girl go through the CCTV camera footage in Hubballi's KIMS Hospital | D HEMANTH

40-DAY-OLD BABY GIRL ABDUCTED FROM HUBBALLI'S KIMS HOSPITAL

ARUNKUMAR HURALIMATH @Hubballi

IN a shocking incident, a 40-day-old baby girl was snatched from the hands of her mother inside a hospital ward in Hubballi. The incident was reported on Monday afternoon, when the baby was undergoing treatment at KIMS Hospital in the city.

According to the statement of the mother, who is a resident of Kundgol town in Dharwad district, a middle aged man, wearing a black t-shirt, came inside the ward and snatched the baby from her hands. Before she could call out for help, the man took away the baby and fled the ward. The security incharge at the hospital informed the police soon after the mother and relatives raised an alarm.

The mother, Umme Zainab Hussainsab Sheikh, had brought her baby to KIMS following a health issue. The baby was being treated at the pediatric section of KIMS hospital. "Around 1 pm on Monday, I was trying to console my crying baby. When the man snatched my baby I got up and tried to run behind him but in vain. He walked faster and disappeared. I shouted for help but there was no one," she recalled.

The Vidyanagar police, who have registered a case, visited the hospital and took the mother's statement and eyewitnesses. The police are checking the CCTV camera footage for clues. "We have formed two teams to identify the child lifter," the police said.

KIMS hospital director Dr Ramalingappa Antartani said that the security personnel were present in the hospital. "Following multiple health disorders the baby girl was admitted to the hospital for the second time a few days ago. The mother and baby got admitted and the baby was under treatment. There were security persons at the pediatric section and on the hospital premises too," he added.

NOT THE FIRST TIME

This is not the first time such a baby lifting case has been reported at the KIMS hospital. Before 2016, many such cases were reported at the hospital on a regular basis. Later, the security was increased at the hospital which prevented the repetition of such cases till yesterday. In 2016, a nine-day-old baby girl was kidnapped from the KIMS hospital and the case was solved in just two days after an arrest was made in Davanagere district. In 2014, a two-month-old baby girl was kidnapped from the hospital and later the police managed to solve the case. Another case was reported in the same year as the kidnappers abducted a three-year-old girl from the hospital. It was also solved by the police.

Fuel price hike: KSRTC fares may go up

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC) is likely to increase the bus fare as the diesel prices have increased over the last few months.

Officials said that 60 per cent of the corporation's revenues is being spent on buying fuel, and so, they are negotiating with the government to permit an increase in bus fare.

H V Anantha Subba Rao, president of KSRTC staff and workers federation, said the KSRTC sent the proposal to the government a week ago to allow 25 per cent fare hike.

Speaking to TNIE, V Anbu Kumar, Managing Director, KSRTC, said earlier 32 per cent of the revenue was used to purchase fuel while the fare was increased three years ago.

Another official said the government might reject fare hike due to the upcoming Assembly elections, and thus, the KSRTC might send a proposal to sanction grants.

Transport Minister B Sriramulu did not respond to phone calls from TNIE.

Meanwhile, 50 electrical buses will be added to the KSRTC fleet in the next three months, and one of the trial buses will run in the next month for a couple of weeks.

BULLDOZER JUSTICE IS ILLEGAL, IMMORAL AND UNJUSTIFIABLE

Only the thinnest veneer of legality covers the kind of official 'action' that India has chosen to take against those it has deemed to be guilty of infractions in the public sphere in the wake of the Nupur Sharma controversy. At present, as a republic, we are bulldozing over the very spirit of the law. The bulldozer knows no legal nuances and niceties. Afreen Fatima has been an outspoken voice articulating the Muslim point of view ever since the nationwide protests against the Citizenship Amendment Act. Her father, Welfare Party of India leader Javed Mohammed 'Pump', seems by all accounts to be a man invested with a community spirit. His house in Prayagraj, which was demolished by local authorities on being an 'unauthorised' construction, was a hub for relief measures in the neighbourhood during the worst phase of the pandemic.

The political views of father and daughter may not match with another person's, or with that of the government, but they are entitled to hold them and express them in public—as long as those do not include calls to break the law. If Javed had any role as the "mastermind" of the protests against Nupur Sharma, and by extension in the acts of vandalism that were witnessed in those protests—as is being alleged—there would be perfectly applicable clauses of the law that would account for it. The constitutionally correct way to approach such a situation needs no reiteration: investigate, prove and prosecute.

Punishment without trial is not the way of democratic republics. And such a disproportionate action—someone's house being demolished, as an act of exemplary punishment—becomes a form of hypervigilantism by the State. It's bad in law, morally unjustifiable, and not a very sagacious thing to do at a time when the international spotlight is on India vis-a-vis the recent controversy. The Narendra Modi government had taken the wise course after the global uproar. That hand must move again.

LESSONS FROM LIC's POOR SHOW ON THE BOURSES

The capital market could be a tough task master. Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC), the country's biggest life insurance company, may have realised that now. LIC, which is also a government-run company, was expecting the market to give it a valuation of ₹10-12 lakh crore when it first began the listing process. But, finance ministry officials who were overseeing the whole process realised their folly only when the company approached investors ahead of the listing. In the end, the government slashed valuation by almost half to ₹6 lakh crore.

True, unfavourable equity market conditions did play spoilsport but putting the entire blame on markets for the valuation cut would be stretching the limits of logic a bit too far. The LIC IPO is languishing at a valuation of less than ₹4.5 lakh crore now, barely a month after it was listed. This is despite the fact that LIC is a market leader by a large margin with 64% share in terms of total premium. A concerned government now says it is looking for ways to fix the loss of investor confidence in the company. However, walking the talk is not easy. Remember the listing of Coal India, a monopoly player in coal mining in India? Its share price is currently trading 43% lower than its listing price.

These debacles offer hard lessons for companies as well as the government. Equity markets do not necessarily 'reward' a company for being the market leader or a monopoly, unless it shows continuous improvement and efficiency. As long as you are a non-listed company, you can get away with a lot of inefficiencies, inanities and opacities.

But once you get listed, and submit to the regulatory supervision of Securities and Exchange Board of India and shareholders' scrutiny, you cannot get away with any of these. Investors are quick to punish you for any misstep. Investors can be irrational at times, but they do correct their stance sooner rather than later. They will strongly back good performers but will be brutal with duds. Many new-age technology firms, which tried to take advantage of the easy money in the system in 2020–21 by getting listed at high valuations, are now discovering the harsh truth.

Countries demanding high standards from others should apply the same on themselves as well. Indians have a right to demand an end to double standards

QATAR MUST MAKE AMENDS & WORK TOWARDS HARMONY

A SURYA PRAKASH

Former chairman of Prasar Bharati and Scholar, Democracy Studies

SOUMYADIP SINHA

Now that the Indian government has disassociated itself from the remarks made by the spokespersons of the ruling Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) about Prophet Muhammad and reiterated the nation's commitment to democracy and secular values, it is time to reflect on the conduct of certain nations, specially Qatar, which took umbrage at the remarks made against the Prophet during a television debate in India.

The first point is that there cannot be a resolution of issues pertaining to inter-religious conflict unless there is understanding and harmony. Can nations which believe that the standards that they demand from others will not apply to them, expect reciprocity and mutual respect? Indians have a right to demand an end to double standards.

A case in point is Qatar—an Arab nation with a population of just under 29 lakh, which is less than the population of Jaipur. Out of them, only 3 lakh are Qatari citizens. The rest are expatriates. Article 1 of its Constitution says Qatar is an Arab State and its religion is Islam, and "the Islamic Law is the main source of its legislations". Article 7 of the Constitution deals with foreign policy and declares that it is based on the principle of maintaining international peace and security and "non-interference in internal affairs of the State, and cooperation with peace-loving nations". This brings us to the hospitality and citizenship accorded by the State of Qatar to the painter, Maqbool Fida Husain, who depicted Hindu gods and goddesses in a despicable manner in his paintings before he fled India. And how does the grand principle of "non-interference" gel with Qatar's conduct vis-a-vis M F Husain, a fugitive from the law?

D P Sinha of Sanskar Bharati published a detailed note many years ago along with photographs of some of the most reprehensible paintings of Husain, which constitute a damning charge sheet of the painter. Prafull Goradia and K R Phanda, the authors of Anti-Hindus, published in 2003, have done great public service by reproducing Sinha's charge sheet.

Here are the details: In his painting called Durga, the Goddess is shown in sexual union with a tiger; in Rescuing Sita, the artist shows a naked Sita astride a naked Hanuman's tail ("Hanuman's tail as a phallic symbol"); Lord Vishnu is generally painted with four hands holding a shankh, a padma, a gada and a chakra, but the hands of Vishnu are amputated and his legs have been cut off—a maimed, mutilated and exhausted Vishnu reclines on his spouse Lakshmi and his vahan Garuda.

Further, we have Goddess Saraswati, who the Hindus revere as the Goddess of learning draped in white (Shubra vastraanvita), shown naked, as also Goddess Lakshmi and she is perched on the head of Lord Ganesh.

Sinha, then, refers to two paintings of Hanuman. In one, he is three-faced and there is a nude couple—"The identity of the woman is not in doubt. The erect genital of Hanuman is bent in the direction of the female. The obscenity is obvious," says the author of the note. In the other painting, a naked Sita is sitting on the naked thigh of Ravan and a naked Hanuman is attacking him.

> Article 7 of Qatar's Constitution says its foreign policy is based on "non-interference in internal affairs of the State, and cooperation with peace-loving nations". This brings us to the hospitality and citizenship accorded by Qatar to M F Husain, who depicted Hindu gods and goddesses in a despicable manner in his paintings before he fled India

But, this is not all. In another painting Husain depicts the most revered Gitopadesha scene replacing Lord Krishna with George Washington on the chariot. Sinha concludes that Husain replaces Lord Krishna with George Washington because in Husain's eyes "Lord Krishna is no god and stands denigrated and reduced to the level of a mere human being".

In the other painting, should the cutting of hands and legs of Vishnu "be regarded as creative freedom or deliberate affront to Hindu sensibility?" he asks. But is Husain's iconoclasm uniform? Far from it. Fatima, the Prophet's daughter is "the embodiment of serenity and grace" and fully clothed.

Coming back to the State of Qatar, Indians have a right to ask: "How can you play a willing and generous host to a man who has vilified the religion and deities of a billion Hindus? Just look at the size of the religious group that Husain has hurt. It is three-hundred times the population of Qatar. Having taken this unfortunate and arguably unfriendly decision vis-a-vis the vast majority of India's citizens, does it now lie ill in your mouth to be critical of India on something that happened in news television?"

Husain migrated to Qatar and accused the Hindus of "hounding him". Far from it. All that the secular, democratic Hindus did was to file cases against him in court. If he had done this to an icon of Islam, one can imagine what would have been his fate.

So, what should one say to the people of Qatar? It is possible that you were unaware of the extent of hurt that Husain had caused to the majority of Indians. But, now that the facts are before you, you should make amends for having entertained an obnoxious blasphemer and restore India-Qatar relations to where it ought to be, ensuring mutual respect and understanding for each other's citizens. Just a peep into the social media these days will tell the Qataris how angry and disappointed Indians are on L'Affaire Husain.

Please don't get carried away by the anti-India rhetoric in some quarters. Grasp the sense of hurt among the billion-strong Hindus in India and take initiatives which will restore harmony between the two countries. India and Qatar have a lot at stake. Let fair play and reciprocity rule the ties between the two nations. Over to Doha!

WHY I LEARNT ENGLISH AND WOULDN'T LEARN HINDI

K ELANGO

National Secretary, English Language Teachers' Association of India

Having studied English literature, the image that flashes across my mind is the scene between Miranda and Caliban in Shakespeare's The Tempest wherein Miranda was boasting of educating Caliban, but Caliban contrarily retorts:

You taught me language, and my profit on't / Is I know how to curse. The red plague rid you / For learning me your language!

Caliban's outburst could be an apt response to any language coercion; the only benefit of learning his master's language is he now knows how to curse in the same language. Would I be supportive of Caliban? Perhaps not, although his poetic language makes a compelling case.

Educated in a regional medium till SSLC, I decided, though there were other options, to pursue a Bachelor of Arts in English Literature on the advice of my relatives who wished me to be placed in a well-paying job. Naïve that I was, the Nehruvian expression, "English is our major window on the world" or "a treasure trove of world knowledge" had no appeal but what mattered was a "high-salaried" job to "settle down" in life. However, acquiring English was akin to the Sisyphean struggle—pushing a boulder upon a steep hill. It taught me that "learn English in 30 days" and learn English in a "fun way" are hollow ad gimmicks.

Fortunately, after the formal degrees, everything turned out to favour me; I got placed in a reputed institution and eventually retired from teaching at a university. I even had a short stint of an assignment abroad and was engaged in some sort of professional activity throughout my career. But what fascinates me is that even after the official retirement, English is keeping me active in multiple ways. Yet another benefit of dealing with the learnt language is that I went from being monolingual to bilingual, enabling me to occupy two worlds simultaneously. I would sum up my experiences of learning English by a single expression—self-fulfilling.

Like English, I would love to learn Hindi if it can dangle a carrot; not only me, but anyone would lap it up. Restricting my temptation to adopt Martin Luther King Jr's rhetoric, "I have a dream…", let me state it as: If I were to learn Hindi, would it get me a placement in Tesla? Would it enable me to travel like a modern Marco Polo or Christopher Columbus? Would it help me interact with Boris Johnson? And If I were to learn it, would I be able to be like Mark Zuckerberg, a tech giant? Or at least can I become a better human being?

Learning a language, including one's own mother tongue, is difficult owing to cognitive demands. But the necessity of daily use compels us to learn and the majority confines it for fulfilling the basics. Barring a handful, everyone is far removed from Harold Bloom's 'taxonomy' of knowledge employing language for analysing, synthesising, and evaluating. Especially in today's context, when an avalanche of information submerges people, they are passively absorbing it with nonchalance; consciously no attempt is made to read between and beyond the lines, leave aside dabbling in creativity. So, why should I spend my lifetime learning other languages? When linguistic competence forms the core of one's identity, why should I encourage any effort to strip it?

> Efforts to bring in uniformity in any form of human endeavour would only result in maiming minds, bruising emotions, alienating people and ultimately, incapacitating human potentials. … Just because most people in a country know the language, should it be thrust down the throats of everyone?

People can't fritter away their physical or cognitive energies. They detest chasing a utopian world, especially one that contradicts their definition of it, and require assurances to lead their lives purposefully. Just because most people in a country know the language, should it be thrust down the throats of everyone in a land that has multiple thriving languages?

Justifications such as Hindi as an "important part of the unity of the country", "people should communicate in the language of India" and "Hindi should be accepted as an alternative to English" don't hold much water as there are countries with several official languages.

Bolivia has the greatest number of official languages tallying up to 37. And although 78% of the US' population speaks English, it has still not been granted the status of a national language—all these exhibit a tranquil coexistence.

I neither entertain Hindi-phobia, nor am I a Hindi-hater. But if someone can assure me that when Hindi becomes a national language, millions of jobless youths can find jobs, all Indians can avail basic necessities like food, clothing and shelter, and India can emerge as a 'city upon a hill', I would have no hesitation to learn it.

If I can be promised that Hindi can banish ignorance to usher in enlightenment, shatter discordances to supplant harmony, and raze down moral bankruptcy to reinstate righteousness, why wouldn't I embrace it?

Efforts to bring in uniformity in any form of human endeavour, would only result in maiming minds, bruising emotions, alienating people and ultimately, incapacitating human potentials. Human evolution has taught us that any kind of imposition—be it religious, cultural or linguistic—has only led to strife and suffering. So, coercion is worthy of protesting and rejection.

The democracy drama

This is with reference to the editorial Burnished credentials and bruised egos in Rajya Sabha elections (June 13). Poaching, horse-trading and other unethical means have become an integral part of elections in this country. The BJP is ahead of Congress and its allies. But it seems as though the dance of democracy has been reduced to a drama of the absurd.

Pinarayi's melanophobia

The Kerala CM has said that people can wear black and there won't be any restrictions. But why were people asked to remove their black masks? The Kerala police truly made a laughing stock of themselves. There is a world of difference between what the CM says and what the police do on the ground. Are people fools? Who is making them do all this? The truth will hopefully reveal itself in the days ahead.

Upgrade engg syllabus

This is with reference to the editorial Engineering colleges need a Midas touch (June 13). The writer has correctly pointed out that there is a need to revamp the syllabi of engineering courses. Rote learning can never equip engineering graduates to get placed in the industry and thrive. Internships should be made compulsory so that students imbibe practical knowledge. And it is also necessary for students to know the basics of the English language so that they can interact with experts and hone their skills.

Remove child labour

This is with reference to Child Labour: Rights body for massive rescue (June 13). It is praiseworthy to note that child labourers will be rescued and rehabilitated under the aegis of NCPCR. Child Labour (Prohibition and Regulation) Act, 1986 should be strictly enforced and those employers who violate this should be fined because this is completely cruel and illegal. Rescuing these child labourers will surely pave the way for universalising education in line with the New Education Policy.

An easy road for NDA

This is with reference to Sonia prods Pawar to be opposition President candidate (June 13). While the BJP wants a consensus candidate that will be acceptable to all, the opposition has an inflated ego and rank opportunism. TMC and Congress will actually make it quite easy for BJP to choose a candidate.

George will be missed

I have been reading T J S George's columns for a long time and always looked forward to his column in The Sunday Express. When he said in his last column Now is the time to say goodbye (June 12) that "all good things must come to an end", I felt very sad.

Big shoes to fill

T J S George's columns have always been so thought-provoking and relatable. He echoed all our pain and sorrows in this country with bright, balanced and highly educational write-ups. Perhaps another seasoned writer will continue to write the column, but T J S is T J S; no one can fill his shoes!

Need to develop better understanding with China: Saran

India should aim to become an engine of growth for all its neighbours and lead the way in helping resolve shared challenges, says the former foreign secretary

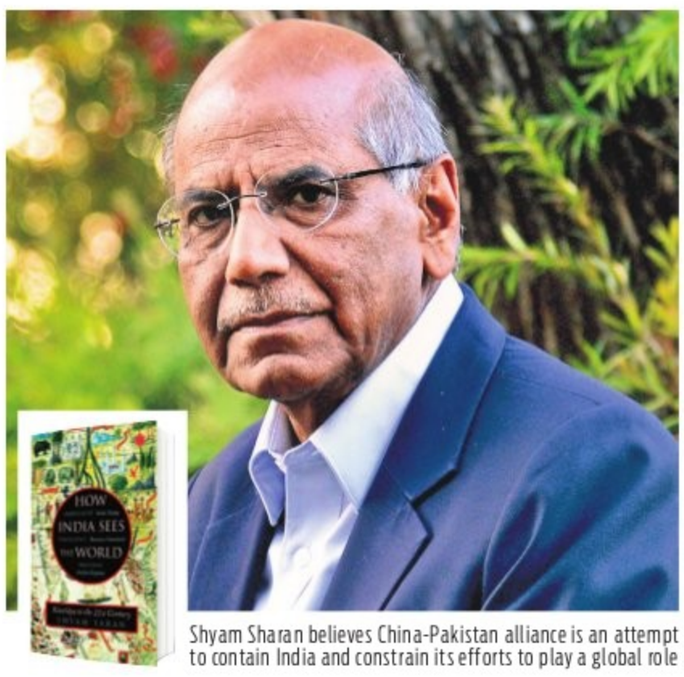
FORMER Foreign Secretary Shyam Saran, says both India and China have stereotypical images of each other. In an interview with Yeshi Seli, the Padma Bhushan awardee talks about his latest book, the complexities of India-China ties, India's neighbour policy, the ongoing row over the remarks on the Prophet, and several other issues. Excerpts from an interview:

What has prompted you to write a book on China and its complex relationship with India?
China is India's neighbour and its most significant security and economic challenge. Yet most Indians know very little about China and how its current perceptions of the world and India are influenced by its history, culture and the temperament of its people. Both India and China nurse stereotypical images of each other, mostly negative, I would say. My latest book, How China Sees India and the World is an attempt to help people in India understand China better, decode what to many people appears as an enigma.

Do you see the challenges between the two nations narrowing down in the future?
China and India are Asian civilizations with a long history. In some respects, there are affinities between their cultures. There are significant differences too. For example, the Chinese language has no alphabet and Chinese characters are ideograms, each character is a word. Even though spoken Chinese may be different in various parts of China, the written script is the same and this is a strong basis for Chinese sense of common identity and unity. India, on the other hand, has several languages and scripts and what is striking is India's plurality with a certain deep underlying cultural unity. There is no reason why India and China cannot co-exist as proud and successful nations. Better mutual understanding and engagement can facilitate that.

Verbatim

China claims it is India's largest trading partner. Is trade likely to help improve diplomatic and political relations?
Trade and economic relations can help in promoting mutual understanding, but cannot be a substitute for it. As you have stated China is today India's largest trading partner, but this has neither eased the tensions at the border nor persuaded China to lower these tensions. Even though it is difficult to find alternative sources of supply in the short term, it is the government's policy to progressively reduce trade dependence on China and restrict its investment in India's digital economy.



Shyam Sharan believes China-Pakistan alliance is an attempt to contain India and constrain its efforts to play a global role

What is the upcoming BRICS Summit likely to bring on the table for India?
I do not think anything substantive will be achieved in the current political environment. However, India's persistence in maintaining its presence in a number of regional and international forums underscores the view that India's range of interests today demands various interest-based coalitions rather than exclusive partnerships. Attendance at the BRICS summit will be an important demonstration of that.

How does Pakistan's proximity with China impact India?
Any coalition of two hostile powers ranged along our borders is a security challenge. The China-Pakistan alliance is a low-cost, low-risk Chinese proxy to contain India within the sub-continent and constrain its efforts to play a larger regional and global role. There is also the potential danger of a "two-front war" which India must always be prepared for.

What role can India play in fortifying its ties in the neighbourhood?
India has adopted the 'Neighbourhood First' policy. Obviously if a hostile China entrenches itself across our borders, as it has done in Pakistan, India's security interest will be threatened. Instead of trying to catch up with China project-for-project, we should leverage areas where we have strengths and assets that China does not have. Our aim should be for India, as the largest economy in the sub-continent, to become an engine of growth for all our neighbours, leverage the cultural affinities that bind us and lead the way in helping resolve shared challenges such as Climate Change.

There was an outrage from Muslim countries recently on remarks made on the Prophet. Does this reflect a shortcoming in diplomacy? What should be done to deter a similar situation from arising in the future?
In our globalised and densely inter-connected world, what happens in one country instantly becomes news across the world. It is very difficult to insulate foreign policy from domestic politics. Therefore, for every State, it is important that domestic political discourse doesn't complicate the safeguarding of the national interests. Political leadership must ensure that such intemperate behaviour is not tolerated in competitive politics.

Any suggestions that would help India's foreign policy?
For a country like India whose international engagement has been expanding rapidly, the small size of its foreign service is a major constraint. Indian diplomats are expected to handle all aspects of India's foreign relations — political, economic, commercial and cultural. They need to be trained in different disciplines to enable them to become better negotiators.

Diplomacy is usually associated with carefully deliberated responses. However, there is nimbleness that latter day diplomacy requires. Diplomats need new skills and this, too, requires capacity building.

We also need to pay far greater and continuous attention to our neighbourhood. Our engagement with our neighbours is at times episodic, that is, we become intensely involved when a crisis erupts, but then tend to lose interest when things settle down. Relations with neighbours need to be nurtured over the long term and at every level.

Priyanka Gandhi meets Congress leader KC Venugopal and others who were detained during the protest in New Delhi | PTI

Congress accuses Delhi cops of brutality against leaders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Congress on Monday used the questioning of Rahul Gandhi by the Enforcement Directorate (ED) case as an occasion to present a united front and turned it into a show of strength. The party's senior leadership along with the rank and file came out in the streets to rally behind Rahul. The Congress later accused the Delhi Police of manhandling party leaders during the protest.

Congress Working Committee members, MPs and party general secretaries, including Ashok Gehlot, K C Venugopal, Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury, Bhupesh Baghel, Jairam Ramesh, Karti Chidambaram, Sachin Pilot, Mukul Wasnik and Randeep Singh Surjewala reached Akbar Road to participate in a 'solidarity march' to the ED office despite prohibitory orders of the Delhi Police. Similar protests were organised outside ED offices in states.

Heavy security arrangements were made at and around the Congress headquarters to prevent party workers from proceeding along with Rahul. Amid sloganeering by the workers, the Wayanad MP reached the ED office accompanied by a large convoy of leaders including his sister Priyanka Gandhi Vadra. In view of the barricades placed to restrict Congress leaders, Rahul took a detour to reach the ED office.

Subsequently, several prominent leaders were detained, including Mallikarjun Kharge, Baghel, Surjewala, Venugopal and Chowdhury. A large number of workers were also taken into preventive custody for violating Section 144 CrPC, banning assembly of more than four persons, which was imposed in central Delhi.

Later, Surjewala alleged that a "murderous attack" was made on Venugopal. "In-charge of Delhi Congress and MP Shaktisinh Gohil was beaten with batons. Former home minister P Chidambaram was pushed because of which his ribs have fractured. Does the Modi government understand how to behave with a former home minister? MP Pramod Tiwari also has hairline fracture in ribs as he fell on the ground when pushed."

China wades into Prophet remarks controversy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

CHINA on Monday stepped into the ongoing row over the Prophet remarks bys Nupur Sharma. "We have noted relevant reports and hope that the incident can be properly managed," the country's foreign ministry spokesperson Wang Wenbin said while responding to a query during a media briefing in Beijing.

"'It is important to abandon arrogance and prejudice, and deepen recognition and understanding of one's own civilisation and differences from other civilisations and promote dialogue and harmonious co-existence," Wenbin added. Interestingly, the comments came a day after Pakistan Army chief Javed Bajwa visited China.

The Ministry of External Affairs refrained from reacting to Wenbin's comment while experts on India-China relations thought it was best ignored. "China's comment defies logic. A country which has such an abysmal record of human rights violations shouldn't sermonise others. The whole world is aware of how Uygurs Muslims are treated in the Xinjiang province," said an expert on China affairs.

Meanwhile, there were reports that expats who protested over the remarks on the Prophet in Kuwait were are likely to be deported to their native countries and barred from entering Kuwait again. It is learnt that around 40-50 people took part in this protest march.

Jamiat moves SC over demolitions

'15-day prior notice must'

The Jamiat Ulema-i-Hind said that two interim petitions had been filed in the SC. The petitions stated that according to the law, 15 days notice must be given before any demolition operation.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE leading organisation of Muslim clerics and scholars, Jamiat Ulema-i-Hind (JUiH), has moved the Supreme Court seeking directions to the Uttar Pradesh government to ensure that no further demolitions are carried out without following due process.

The association, in its plea, has also sought directions to initiate action against officials responsible for the houses demolished in violation of the rule of law and the municipal laws.

According to Jamiat, the present situation is more alarming as the Supreme Court had already ordered a stay of demolitions that were being carried out in northwest Delhi in similar circumstances.

In a statement on Monday, JUiH also slammed the police firing on the protesters in Ranchi in which two persons were killed.

Covid spike: Minister stresses on vax

KAVITA BAJELI DATT @ New Delhi

AS the Covid-19 cases are rising in some states, especially in Maharashtra and Kerala, Union Health Minister Mansukh Mandaviya on Monday warned states and Union Territories that the pandemic is not over yet and the protocol must be observed and vaccination should speed up.

Highlighting the need to be alert and not to forget Covid-appropriate behaviour, Mandaviya told health ministers of states and UTs in a meeting to review the status and progress of the door-to-door vaccination drive 'Har Ghar Dastak 2.0' launched on June 1 that there was a need to be cautious and to strengthen the genome sequencing.

"The Covid-19 is not over yet. With rising Covid-19 cases in some states, it is important to be alert and not to forget Covid-appropriate behaviour," Mandaviya said.

Stressing the importance of vaccination among vulnerable age groups, he urged the state health ministers to personally review the status and progress of the particular month-long drive. "Let us accelerate our efforts to identify all beneficiaries in the 12-17 age groups for the 1st and 2nd doses so that they can attend schools with the protection of the vaccine," he added. He said there was a need to widen vaccination coverage for schoolchildren as well as giving precautionary doses to the elderly.

India has been registering a continued surge in daily new Covid-19 cases since June 1. On Monday, the country recorded 8,084 fresh Covid-19 cases and ten deaths. This is the third day India's daily new cases crossed the 8,000 mark. The Indian SARS-CoV-2 Genomics Consortium (INSACOG) will be reviewing the data of genomic surveillance of variants to detect whether any new variant is causing the spike, officials added.

MEDIA ADVISED

Don't advertise online betting platforms: Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Minister of Information and Broadcasting (I&B) on Monday issued an advisory to print, electronic and digital media to refrain from advertising online betting platforms. The advisory comes in light of instances of a number of such advertisements appearing in media.

Betting and gambling are not just illegal in most parts of the country but also pose significant financial and socio-economic risk for the consumers, especially youth and children, the advisory states. These advertisements on online betting have the effect of promoting this largely prohibited activity, it adds.

"The advertisements of online betting are misleading, and do not appear to be in strict conformity with the Consumer Protection Act, 2019, Advertising Code under the Cable Television Networks Regulation Act, 1995, and advertisement norms under the Norms of Journalistic Conduct laid down by the Press Council of India under the Press Council Act, 1978," the advisory reads.

The ministry also advised online and social media, including advertisement intermediaries and publishers, to not display such ads in India.

Congress holding ED to ransom: BJP hits back

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE BJP on Monday fielded Union minister Smriti Irani to hit out at the Congress in the National Herald case. It accused the Congress of holding the ED to ransom to protect the Gandhis by creating a "political chaos" through a protest.

"Never before was such a blatant attempt made by a political family to hold an investigation to ransom into a mega corruption case. It has been done to protect the ill-gotten assets worth ₹2,000 crore for which Rahul Gandhi has been summoned," Irani said.

Irani alleged that the protests were engineered by the Congress as part of a strategy to exert pressure on the investigating agency. "Shockingly as well as shamefully, it was aimed at supporting corruption. But nobody is above law", she said, asking Rahul Gandhi to explain his family's ties to the Dotex Merchandise Company.

She described Dotex Merchandise as a hawala operator, whose transactions were flagged by the Financial Intelligence Unit. "The nation wants to know from Rahul Gandhi about his family's relation with the Dotex Merchandise. The Gandhi family had floated the Young India purportedly to grab the assets, worth ₹2000 crore, of Associated Journals Limited, which publishes the National Herald," she said.

> An irony of ironies is that those who are on bail have called upon their supporters and party leaders to lay siege to Delhi as their corrupt deeds have been exposed
> Smriti Irani, Union minister

Quoting details, the minister said over 5,000 freedom fighters had shares in the newspaper when it started out. She alleged that Young India was formed with an aim devoted to charity in 2010. "But it admitted in 2016 that not a single charity work was conducted by it... It served not society but the Gandhi family," Irani said.

Next year on, legal edu in 12 languages

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

A national committee for developing regional languages in legal education has been constituted by the Bar Council of India (BCI), which will discuss teaching law in 12 Indian languages in over 1,000 colleges. The committee, chaired by Justice S A Bobde, retired Chief Justice of India, plans to roll out textbooks for law students in regional languages by the 2023-24 academic session.

Manan Kumar Mishra, chairman of the Bar Council of India (BCI), said the committee would ensure publication of good legal textbooks in regional languages so that law institutions would not have any difficulty in imparting legal education in local languages. BCI rules already allow legal education in local languages, said Mishra, the working president of the panel.

Chamu Krishna Shastry, Chairman, Bharatiya Bhasha Samiti, under the Union education ministry, said it is a historic step that will go a long way in shaping a legal education system rooted in Indian ethos as envisaged in the National Education Policy.

He said there is not much study material in local languages for law students at present. "The need is to produce quality legal textbooks. There are some legal books in Hindi and Tamil, but not in other local languages," Shastry, who is one of the members of the committee, told this newspaper.

He said the focus this year is on producing good quality content and textbooks in local languages. Law colleges will then be requested to start using them from 2023-24.

Other members on the panel include Justice L Narasimha Reddy; Prof M Jagadesh Kumar, chairman, UGC; Prof Ishwara Bhat, former Vice-Chancellor, National University of Juridical Sciences (NUJS) Kolkata and Karnataka Law University; Dr S Vaidhyasubramaniam, Vice-Chancellor, Sastra University, Tamil Nadu; and Dr Gopakumar Sharma, Joint Secretary, UGC.

8 yrs of unprecedented development in NE: PM

Statement comes after BJP swept Karbi Anglong election

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday said that the Northeast witnessed "unprecedented" development in the last eight years under the BJP-led NDA government.

"The last eight years have seen unprecedented development in the Northeast. The focus is on infrastructure creation, ensuring better healthcare, education and popularising the rich cultures from the different states of the region," he tweeted.

He also said that "transformative initiatives" were taken for the all-round development of the region.

Modi's statement came a day after the BJP swept Assam's Karbi Anglong Autonomous Council elections by winning all 26 seats. Reacting to the statement, Assam CM Himanta Biswa Sarma tweeted: "In the past eight years, #NorthEast has traversed a beautiful trajectory of peace, stability and prosperity. Under the dynamic leadership of Hon PM Shri @narendramodi, we shall keep reaching new heights."

The Centre has been highlighting the lifting of AFSPA from some areas of the region, peace pacts with various insurgent groups, 74% reduction in insurgency-related incidents, 60% decrease in the casualties of personnel of security forces, commissioning of 23 new air routes, country's longest rail-cum-road bridge Bogibeel, AIIMS at Guwahati, National Sports University in Manipur and bamboo technology parks in Assam and Arunachal, as its major initiatives for the Northeast region.

India's longest rail-cum-road bridge Bogibeel was opened in 2018

Early next year, Tripura, Nagaland and Meghalaya will go to polls and the BJP has started the groundwork. It rules Tripura and is a constituent in the coalition governments of Nagaland and Meghalaya. In Tripura, the party has already launched a door-to-door campaign. It is led by the newly-appointed Chief Minister Manik Saha himself.

The focus is on creating infrastructure, ensuring better healthcare, education and popularising the rich cultures from the region

345 held so far over UP protests

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AS many as 345 people have been arrested so far in connection with the protests and stone-throwing at various parts of Uttar Pradesh on Friday over the controversial remarks against Prophet Mohammed by the now-suspended BJP leaders Nupur Sharma and Naveen Kumar Jindal.

Meanwhile, a day after the demolition of the house of prime accused Javed Mohammad in Prayagraj, shopkeepers and residents of other localities in the city, including in Atala, vacated the buildings occupied by them in fear of action by the authorities. Notably, the Atala locality witnessed large-scale protest and stone-throwing on Friday.

The houses of 92 people arrested so far in Prayagraj for their alleged role in the violent protests on June 10 have reportedly been identified by the administration and the status of the legality of their properties is being cross checked, said the local sources.

In Saharanpur, 18 persons, including 12 Hindus and six Muslims, have been held for allegedly posting hate speech on social media over the last week, Senior Superintendent of Police Akash Tomar said on Monday.

Police authorities in Firozabad and Ambedkarnagar have put out lookout posters for those suspected to have involved in throwing stones at police and defying restrictions. "We have arrested 16 in Firozabad, 41 in Ambedkarnagar, 35 in Moradabad, 100 in Saharanpur, 92 in Prayagraj, 51 in Hathras, six in Aligarh and four in Jalaun, taking the tally of those arrested to 345," said Prashant Kumar, Additional Director General of Police, Law and Order.

On Monday, Ambedkarnagar Police circulated photos of 60 persons who are suspected to have indulged in stone-throwing and sloganeering in Tanda. The police also placed Jamiat Ulema-e-Hind district head Mufti Mehboob-u-Rehman under house-arrest.

Plea in HC challenges civic agency demolishing house

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Lucknow

AMID court vacations, an advocate has filed a petition through a letter in the Allahabad High Court against the demolition of the house belonging to Javed Mohammad alias Javed Pump, the key suspect in violent protests in Prayagraj.

The petition by KK Roy, emailed on June 12, is addressed to the Chief Justice of the High Court. The petition is signed by five other advocates belonging to an association of lawyers, the Zila Adhivakta Sangh. The signatories include Mohammad Saeed Siddiqui, Rajvendra Singh, Prabal Pratap, Ravindra Singh and others. The petition argues that the demolition of Javed's house is against the law as the property does not belong to him. It is owned by his wife Praveen Fatima, it said. The petition claims that Fatima had received the property as a gift from her parents before her marriage.

Meanwhile, a senior Prayagraj Development Authority official said the house was built without getting its map cleared. A notice was issued to Javed Mohammad on May 10, asking him to present his side on May 24. On the given date, neither Javed nor his lawyer turned up. "No document was presented. Therefore, demolition orders were issued," he said.

IIT-G moves 11 places up in global ranking

The Indian Institute of Technology, Guwahati (IIT-G) has climbed 11 places in the QS World University Rankings. The institute received 384th rank in overall ranking and 37th rank in citations-per-faculty. The QS World University Rankings, released on June 8, indicates that IIT-G has moved up at least 217 places from 601-650 range in 2014 to 384 now. At 37 globally with a score of 96.3%, the citations-per-faculty is the strongest indicator for the IIT-G. Prof TG Sitharam, Director of IIT-G, was elated. "A higher ranking makes me very proud of our excellent faculty and students and their efforts to contribute towards top quality research," he said.

More captive-bred pygmy hogs in Manas

The Manas National Park has got ten more captive-bred pygmy hogs thanks to Pygmy Hog Conservation Programme (PHCP). This is the third time that these smallest and rarest wild pigs of the world, threatened by extinction, were reintroduced in Manas after the successful release of 14 in 2020 and 12 in 2021. The PHCP plans to release 60 pygmy hogs in the national park by 2025. The iconic species returned to their home where their last original population still survives but has dramatically declined. The total number of the animal reintroduced into the wild by the PHCP has reached 152 (70 males and 82 females).

Govt to popularise Ahom general

The country does not know much about the 17th century Ahom general Lachit Borphukan. Under his leadership, the Ahoms had defeated the Mughals in the 1671 Battle of Saraighat. Now, the state government has requested all states to include a chapter on Borphukan in their curriculum. "The Assam government is committed to undo errors of the past and present our true history to the nation. We have written to all state governments to include a chapter on Bir Lachit Barphukan," Sarma tweeted. In February, the state had announced a Lachit Samadhi to mark the 400th birth anniversary of Borphukan.

Maha cops nab shooter and aide from Gujarat in Moosewala murder case

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE Maharashtra Police on Monday arrested shooter Santosh Jadhav and his aide Navnath Suryavanshi in the Moosewala case from Bhuj in Gujarat.

More than two weeks after the singer's daylight brutal murder, the Punjab Police have failed to arrest the shooters. A difference of opinion has reportedly come up in the investigations being conducted by the Punjab and Delhi polices in the case. The Punjab side claims to have identified four sharpshooters, while their Delhi counterpart says there are eight shooters.

How many shooters?

Delhi Police had stated that eight sharpshooters were involved in the killing of the singer. A senior Punjab police officer said probe is going on and more than four shooters could have been part of the murder

The state police have arrested a few suspects who had pursued the singer and provided logistic support and weapons to the accused.

The arrest of Jadhav and his aide Navnath Suryavanshi is also linked to a 2021 murder case registered in Pune. Punjab and Delhi police teams were also looking for them. Suryavanshi is from Satara district in Maharashtra but his father lives in Gujarat. Suryavanshi is accused of harbouring Jadhav. Both of them were arrested and were produced before a court that remanded them in police custody until June 20.

Their names cropped up during the questioning of another suspect Mahakal by the Delhi and Maharashtra polices.

The Delhi Police had stated that eight sharpshooters, including Harkamal Ranu of Bathinda, were involved in the killing. However, Punjab Police sources said Ranu, who has 11 criminal cases against him, provided only logistic support.

A senior Punjab police officer said investigation was going on and that more than four sharpshooters could have been involved in the Moosewala case.

'Land belongs to nature': CM angers tribals

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

MANIPUR Chief Minister N Biren Singh has ruffled the feathers of some tribal organisations in the state with his alleged statement that "land belongs to Mother Nature and not to any particular community".

Organisations such as Tangkhul Naga Long, Tangkhul Shanao Long and Tangkhul Naga Wungnao Long said for the tribals, land is their identity and this "sacred connect" with land — the only legacy passed down by their forefathers — had been practiced since time immemorial.

"We are indigenous to our land and thus, the sole owners of our land. The British, having understood this right from the early days, created laws to honour the tribals' relationship with their land. This birthright must be respected," they insisted and demanded the CM to withdraw the statement.

The outfits also criticised certain clauses of the Protection of Manipur People Bill, 2015 (PMP Bill) passed by the Assembly.

BJP excludes controversial Pragya from local poll panel in her own constituency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE Bhopal

KNOWN for making controversial remarks, which often embarrass her own party, the 2008 Malegaon Blast accused and first-time BJP MP, Pragya Singh Thakur, doesn't figure in the saffron party's committee for urban local body polls in Bhopal.

Recently, the state BJP constituted a selection panel of senior leaders for selecting party's candidates for the next month's urban local body elections. The committees were constituted for seven divisions, including Gwalior-Chambal, Sagar, Shahdol-Rewa, Indore, Ujjain, Bhopal-Narmadapuram and Jabalpur divisions.

For the Bhopal-Narmadapuram division (which comprises three Lok Sabha seats, Bhopal, Vidisha and Hoshangabad), a nine-member strong committee was constituted to select the candidates for the urban local body polls slated to be held in two phases on July 6 and 13.

The nine committee members included first time MP from Vidisha Ramakant Bhargava (considered close to CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan) and third-time sitting MP from Hoshangabad Uday Pratap Singh. But, the third Lok Sabha member of the division, the first time MP from Bhopal, Pragya Singh Thakur, wasn't included in the panel.

The development happened the same day when Thakur had defended suspended BJP spokesperson Nupur Sharma. Reacting to the party not considering her in the panel, Thakur tweeted "One reply to all questions is I respect the party organisation's decision not to include me in the committee for selecting candidates."

Khargone bulldozing: HC notice to MP govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE Indore bench of Madhya Pradesh High Court has issued notice to the state government over bulldozing a Muslim trader's shop in Khargone town after the April 10 Ram Navami communal violence.

A single judge bench of the high court issued notices the state government, state home department, Khargone district administration and police top brass, besides the chief municipal officer of Khargone, seeking reply within two weeks.

The notices were issued on the petition filed by the Khargone-based trader Jahid Ali, who has demanded institution of a judicial probe against the arbitrary and illegal action of the government/administration, compensation for the demolished property and their reconstruction. Punitive action against the officers who acted extra-judicially has also been sought by the petitioner.

According to the petitioner's counsel MM Bohra, just a day after the communal violence in Khargone (April 10) a team of local authorities bulldozed the petitioner's shop, which was the lone source of his livelihood. "Till date my client hasn't been told by the authorities, why his shop was demolished without giving any prior notice. He is the legal owner of his property and had been paying all taxes for it."

Earlier, in April also, the court had issued notices to the state government over similar petitions.

Hindus help in marriage of Muslim widow's daughter amid unrest

PRANAB MONDAL @Kolkata

SETTING up a pleasant example of communal harmony in Howrah's Uluberia, which witnessed massive violent protests over the issue of hate speech by BJP leaders, Hindu neighbours on Sunday stood by a Muslim widow whose daughter's marriage could be postponed due to unrest. The neighbours took care of everything right from welcoming groom and other guests to ensure the bride's safe journey to her in-laws' house.

Iddenesa Mullick, mother of three daughters and one son, lives in a small house off the NH-6 where the protesters put up a roadblock.

"There were massive protests in our area. I was worried when the administration clamped Section 144. I had no way out other than postponing my daughter Pakiza's marriage which was scheduled on Sunday. But my Hindu neighbours came forward and assured me that they would take care of everything," said Iddenesa.

Surprise welcome

Sheikh Mokkabir, the newly-wed groom, said that he was pleasantly surprised that he was warmly welcomed by the Hindu neighbours. "It is because of them, the entire ceremony was conducted so smoothly," he said

Iddenesa's neighbours Tapas Kodali, Lakhikanta Kayal and Uttam Dolui took all responsibilities of the marriage. "We grew up in the same village together. We stood beside each other always. When the mother of Pakiza was worried, we decided to be her helping hands," said Kodali.

The three went to the police station and obtained permission for the assembly on the occasion of the marriage as Section 144 of CrPC was clamped. Iddenesa lost her husband eight years ago. "The mother and her children participate in all the events organised by the local club. It was our duty as a citizen to stand beside her," said Kayal.

Iddenesa had invited around 300 guests for her daughter's marriage. "But only 150 turned up. My Hindu neighbours welcomed them and took care of food and other comforts. They also helped me to rent a car so that Pakiza could go to her in-laws' house safely. I will be grateful to them for rest of my life," she said.

SUCCESSFUL FORMULA

AAP TO BAT FOR CHEAP POWER IN GUJARAT

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

TO win the elections in Gujarat, the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) has decided to adopt the formula of providing free electricity which has been successful in Delhi.

AAP Gujarat unit on Monday announced that the party would launch "Bijli Andolan" in the state to highlight the high prices of electricity.

During the campaign that will begin on June 15, the party will hold a press conference in every district and take the matter to the Collector's office.

The party will apply to the Collector and demand that the people of Gujarat get free electricity.

The AAP aims to raise awareness regarding the high prices of electricity among the people. The parties will then call on the people and ask every individual to fill out a demand form to know what the public opinion on this matter was.

AAP Gujarat state president Gopal Italia said, "Today, the whole country knows that Kejriwal's Delhi government has been giving 200 units of free electricity to the people of Delhi immediately after coming to power and the plan to provide up to 300 units of free electricity in Punjab will be implemented in a short time. Then why can't the corrupt BJP government in Gujarat do the same?" said Italia.

Second round of Maha poll drama on June 20

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

POST Rajya Sabha polls, Maharashtra is set to witness yet another election where votes of Independents and small parties can make a crucial difference.

The biennial election of the state legislative council is due June 20. The principal contenders in the high-voltage fight are Congress and the saffron party.

Pawar chairs party meet

NCP chief Sharad Pawar on Monday chaired a meeting with top leaders of his party to discuss the results of the RS polls, upcoming Legislative Council polls and the Presidential polls

As per Election Commission's program, Monday was the last day to withdraw nominations. The BJP-supported independent candidate Sarabhau Khoth withdrew his nomination and so did the NCP candidate Shivjirao Gajre.

The opposition BJP has fielded five candidates, while ruling MVA allies, the Congress, NCP and Shiv Sena, have nominated two candidates each. Thus, there are 11 candidates in the fray for 10 seats in the state's upper house.

The quota for legislative council election will be 25.91 votes considering the strength of parties in the 285-member assembly as the Shiv Sena has lost sitting legislator Ramesh Latke while NCP legislators Nawab Malik and Anil Deshmukh are in jail. Anil Deshmukh once again approached the Bombay High Court to get permission for voting.

The main fight will be between Congress' second candidate Bhai Jagtap, who is the Mumbai party chief and BJP's Prasad Lad. In the recent Rajya Sabha elections, BJP defeated Sena candidate Sanjay Pawar by poaching 12 votes of the ruling Maha Vikas Aghadi.

Ukraine pushed back from key city

Capture of Severodonetsk will open road for Moscow to another major city — Kramatorsk

KRAMATORSK

UKRAINE said on Monday its forces had been pushed back from the centre of key industrial city Severodonetsk, where President Volodymyr Zelenskyy described a fight for "literally every metre".

The cities of Severodonetsk and Lysychansk, which are separated by a river, have been targeted for weeks as the last areas still under Ukrainian control in the eastern Lugansk region.

Regional governor Sergiy Gaiday said on Monday Russian forces were "gathering more and more equipment" to "encircle" Severodonetsk.

Moscow's troops had "pushed our units from the centre and continue to destroy our city", he said.

Severodonetsk had been "de facto" blocked off after Russian forces blew up the "last" bridge connecting it to Lysychansk on Sunday, Eduard Basurin, a representative for pro-Russian separatists, said Monday.

Ukrainian forces in the area had two choices, he said, "to surrender or die".

The capture of Severodonetsk would open the road for Moscow to Slovyansk and another major city, Kramatorsk, in their push to conquer the whole of Donbas.

Ukrainian forces were fighting for "every town and village where the occupiers came", Zelenskyy said on Monday in a message to mark the eighth anniversary of the liberation of Mariupol in the earlier conflict. "We are once again fighting for it and all of Ukraine," he said.

'War crimes'

On Monday, Amnesty International accused Russia of war crimes in Ukraine, saying that attacks on the northeastern city of Kharkiv — many using banned cluster bombs — had killed hundreds of civilians.

"The repeated bombardments of residential neighbourhoods in Kharkiv are indiscriminate attacks which killed and injured hundreds of civilians, and as such constitute war crimes," the rights group said in a report on Ukraine's second biggest city.

In Bucha, a town near Kyiv, local police said they had discovered another seven bodies in a grave. "Several victims had their hands tied and knees bound," Kyiv regional police chief Andriy Nebytov said.

China, US envoys pledge support to help Lanka

COLOMBO

THE Chinese Ambassador to Sri Lanka Qi Zhenhong met his US counterpart Julie Chung and held discussions on 'broad topics of mutual interest' and pledged support in helping the island nation mitigate its crippling economic crisis.

Sri Lanka is currently facing its worst economic crisis since independence in 1948. 'Ambassador Qi Zhenhong met with the US Ambassador Julie Chung at the Chinese embassy and had a friendly discussion on broad topics of mutual interest. China and the United States could work together to help Sri Lanka overcome current difficulties,' a tweet from the Chinese Embassy in Sri Lanka said. US Ambassador Chung said discussions centered on the current political and economic situation in Sri Lanka and asserted that there was an exchange of ideas on trade investment and development.

Both envoys agreed on the need to jointly come forward in helping Sri Lanka weather through the current economic and political crisis. The meeting assumes significance and comes at a time when Sri Lankan PM Ranil Wickremesinghe said last week that his government could not tap on the $1.5 billion credit line from China and is yet to hear back from Beijing on the $1 billion loans. PTI

Indian investors lose ₹7 lakh crore

FIIs sell over ₹4,000 cr of shares ahead of Federal Reserve policy meet on June 14-15

RAM SAHGAL @ Mumbai

INDIAN investors became poorer by nearly ₹7 lakh crore on Monday with the bellwether Nifty closing at its lowest level in 11 months, rocked by fears of the US Fed hiking rates more aggressively after retail prices in May rose by 8.6% against market anticipation of 8.3% .

The Nifty closed down a whopping 427 points or 2.64% at 15,774.40 and the Sensex by 1,457 points or 2.68% at 52,846.70, dragged down by IT, banks , financial services and metals .

Index heavyweights, which dragged down Nifty included the Bajaj twins, IndusInd, TechM and ICICI Bank , which fell 4.5-7%. Nestle India and Bajaj Auto were the only two Nifty 50 stocks that ended in the green.

Fear gauge Vix closed by a mammoth 14.25% to 22.37, signalling heightened uncertainty ahead of the FOMC meeting outcome on June 15. A reading above 20 is a negative .

The negative sentiment spread to other assets with the 10-year benchmark government paper yield jumping to an over three year high of 7.6% and the rupee closing down at an all time low of 78.03 to the dollar.

FII selling was behind the rupee fall. FIIs sold a provisional ₹4,164 crore worth of shares on Monday, taking their overall sales this calendar to ₹1.88 lakh crore . Their sales are expected to continue . The major support on Nifty kicks in at 15,500 and resistance at 16,000 . "Technically, if the Nifty breaks and closes below 15,700, it will be a major downside event for the market," said Shrikant Chouhan , head of equity research (retail) at Kotak Securities. "In such a situation, the index would fall to the level of 15,500-15,400 in the short term. It is advisable to reduce a weak long position below the 15700 level. Also, Bank Nifty could drop to 32,000 level if it ends below 33,500." The Dow Jones traded 2.25% lower at the time of writing while the SGX Nifty traded 56 points lower at 15718 . The market could test its March low of 15671 , before breaking lower in the days ahead .

"The risk off mode in equities globally after the US inflation print raised fears of an aggressive rate hike and the Dollar Index at 104 seem to weigh heavily amidst relentless FII selling despite local redemptions in May coming in at a two year low," said S Ranganathan, research head at LKP Securities .

LIC investors become poorer by whopping ₹1.78 lakh cr in a month

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

IN less than a month since listing on the stock exchanges, Life Insurance Corporation of India (LIC) has made investors' poorer by a whopping ₹1.78 lakh crore as its market capitalisation (m-cap) came down to ₹4,22,636 crore on Monday against a m-cap of ₹6,00,242 crore based on the upper end of its IPO price (₹949).

Due to its sheer size, LIC has eroded more wealth than one of the biggest IPO duds of recent times- One97 Communications (Paytm) whose m-cap is down by nearly 1.02 lakh crore since going public in November 2021. The share prices of India's largest insurer hit a fresh record low on Monday after the lock-in period for anchor investors in the company's IPO came to an end on June 13 and benchmark indexes - Sensex and Nifty- fell sharply due to relentless selling by foreign investors amidst weak global cues.

The stock closed the Monday session at a record low of ₹668.20 on the BSE, down 5.85% from its previous close. This was its biggest single day fall and tenth consecutive session when the stock traded lower.

The fall in LIC continues even as the government, LIC's biggest stakeholder, showed concern over its falling share prices. India's disinvestment secretary Tuhin Kanta Pandey said on Friday that the LIC management would do everything possible to increase shareholders' value.

"We are concerned about a temporary blip in LIC share prices. LIC management will look into the issue and discuss shareholders' benefit. Investors have lost money in LIC immediately due to temporary demand and supply. We need a wide range of investors who stay invested in LIC looking at its strong fundamentals," Pandey said.

Government to ecomm firms: Show shoppers order break-up

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Department of Consumer Affairs (MCA) on Monday directed e-commerce food business operators (FBOs) to show consumers the breakup of charges included in the order amount such as delivery and packaging charges, taxes, surge pricing etc.

Platforms must also show individual consumer reviews and refrain from showing only the aggregation of reviews, the department said.

During the last 12 months, over 3,631 grievances have been registered on the National Consumer Helpline (1915) for Swiggy and 2,828 have been registered for Zomato, it informed.

DoCA during a meeting chaired by Secretary, Department of Consumer Affairs, Rohit Kumar Singh with major e-commerce food business operators has also directed major FBOs to furnish the current framework as well as a proposal on improving the consumer grievance redressal mechanism within 15 days.

The National Restaurant Association of India (NRAI) had raised the issue of customer information not being shared by the FBOs with the restaurants, which impacts their ability to serve consumer needs better. Delivery charges are determined and levied by the latter. Further, a commission of around 20% is also charged by the online FBOs on each order, according to NRAI. "The FBOs observed prices of food items are decided by the restaurants and they have a grievance redressal mechanism in place which does have a scope for improvement considering the number and nature of grievances registered by consumers," MCA said,

Bitcoin plunges to eighteen-month low

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

AT a time when the start-up ecosystem widely discusses funding winter, it looks like the cryptocurrency market, which has been hit the hardest on Monday, will face a prolonged crypto winter.

The most popular cryptocurrency Bitcoin tumbled below $23,000, an 18% drop in just 24 hours. Also, this is the lowest in the past 18 months. The cryptocurrency market capitalisation too plunged below $1 trillion, the lowest since January 2021. Last year in November, the global cryptocurrency market peaked at above $2.9 trillion.

According to experts, this may fall further up to $20,000.

"Crypto and Ethereum have seen multiple bear markets. It had crashed 80%, only to bounce back and find new highs," said Vikram Subburaj, CEO, Giottus crypto platform.

These are trying and difficult times for investors as the crypto-space is being continuously impacted by inflation, high interest rates, and a strengthening dollar (indicating a risk-off market), he added. In the past week, the bitcoin price dropped over 28%.

The second-largest cryptocurrency Ethereum prices too fell over 21% to $ 1,194 on Monday. "Crypto markets have seen a correction due to weak global cues. Internationally, stock and crypto markets have become highly correlated. The inflation rate globally has also been a major concern for investors," said Rajagopal Menon, VP, WazirX.

The crypto Fear and Greed Index still showed a sentiment of 'extreme fear', this indicated that most investors were still extremely bearish. "While long-term investors will likely view this as an opportunity to buy the dip, retail investors may remain risk-averse in the current market," said Darshan Bathija, CEO and co-founder of Vauld.

WILL TURN TATA MOTORS ZERO DEBT: CHANDRASEKARAN

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA MOTORS will restore profitability of automobile business and get to near zero net debt by financial year 2024, said Tata Sons and Tata Motors chairman N Chandrasekaran in the company's FY2022 annual report.

The company has been a laggard among listed Tata Group companies. Compared to record profit posted by TCS, Tata Steel and Titan, Tata Motors reported a net loss of ₹1,032 crore in the quarter ended March 2022 as against net loss of ₹7,605 crore during the previous quarter ended March 2021.

For the full fiscal 2022, Tata Motors' net loss stood at ₹11,441 crore, primarily due to low sales of its British subsidiary Jaguar Land Rover (JLR) vehicles.

Tata Motors' net debt shot up by 19% in FY22 to ₹48,679 crore. Tata Motors' free cash flow (automotive) in the year was negative at ₹9,472 crore (as compared to positive ₹5,317 crore in FY21), primarily due to adverse working capital. The business, according to the chairman, showed strong sequential recovery with positive free cash flow (automotive) of ₹11,916 crore in H2 of FY22.

Despite margins impacted by supply chain issues and commodity inflation, India business ended with strong free cash flows of ₹1,879 cr

N Chandrasekaran, Chairman, Tata Sons

"Despite the margins being impacted by supply chain issues and runaway commodity inflation, our India business ended with strong free cash flows of ₹1,879 crore. We are committed to restoring the profitability of this business as it returns to competitive growth and inflation stabilises," Chandrasekaran said.

He also said that global operational challenges such as war, semiconductor shortages and the pandemic has accelerated some of the important future trends of the global automotive industry- from transition towards green mobility to rebalancing of supply chains to become resilient.

Govt plans to appeal against RIL-BGEPIL court order

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government on Monday said it is planning to appeal against the English Commercial Court arbitration award in favour of Reliance Industries (RIL) and Shell-owned BG Exploration & Production India (BGEPIL) in a cost recovery dispute in the western offshore Panna-Mukta and Tapti oil and gas fields.

The English high court last week dismissed India's appeal against a $111 million international arbitration award in favour of RIL and BGEPIL. "Government of India has the right to seek leave of the English Commercial Court to challenge this judgment passed by it," said the petroleum ministry in a statement on Monday.

RIL and BGEPIL dragged the government to arbitration over cost recovery provisions, profit due to the state and amount of statutory dues including royalty payable on December 16, 2010. They wanted to raise the limit of cost that could be recovered from sale of oil and gas before profits are shared with the government. The government also raised counter claims over expenditure incurred, inflated sales, excess cost recovery, and short accounting.

So far, the tribunal has passed 8 partial awards. 66 of the 69 issues were decided in favour of the government in the final award passed by the tribunal in 2016. The British High court on June 9, 2022, ruled the government should have brought its objections over the arbitration tribunal not meeting the required thresholds, when issuing the 2021 award earlier.

April-June inflation to be around 7.3%: Expert

DR Sunil Kumar Sinha, Senior Director and Principal Economist, India Ratings and Research, said the RBI's monetary tightening impacts the real economy with a lag of 6-9 months. He feels that the impact of fuel price cut on inflation will be felt much faster than RBI's rate cut, but will be visible only in June's numbers and thereafter. Upasana Bhardwaj of Kotak Bank expects the April-June inflation to average at 7.3%, lower than the RBI's revised projection of 7.5%.

Amazon-FCPL deal: NCLAT upholds CCI order

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a setback to US e-commerce giant Amazon, the appellate tribunal on Monday dismissed its appeal against the anti-trust regulator's verdict keeping in abeyance the approval to Amazon's acquisition of 49% stake in Future Coupons Private Ltd (FCPL) as well as levying of a penalty of ₹200 crore.

Dismissing Amazon's plea against the verdict of Competition Commission of India (CCI), the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) on Monday said power of CCI to grant approval (to a deal) include the power to keep the order in abeyance if it believes Amazon has breached the terms of the approval order.

Based on this premise, the NCLAT refused any relief by Amazon and dismissed the plea. The CCI through an order in December 2021 had kept in abeyance the approval it had given to Amazon's acquisition of 49% stake in FCPL and had asked Amazon to apply afresh for approval of the deal. The regulator has also imposed a penalty of ₹200 crore on Amazon for 'a deliberate design on it part to suppress the actual scope and purpose of the deal'. The cCCI had to review its 2019 decision to approve the Amazon-Future Coupon deal after it was pointed out by different stakeholders including an independent director of Future Retail as well as by the Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) that Amazon had not clearly disclosed to CCI its intention to take a strategic control over Future Retail Ltd (FRL), a company in which Future Coupons holds 9.82%, through its deal with FCPL.

Coal import may fall 11.4% to 186MT this fiscal: Govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

EVEN as Coal India (CIL) has issued a tender to import coal from overseas, the country's coal import is likely to decline by 11.4% to 186 million tonnes (MT) this fiscal. As per the medium-term projections of the ministry, India is expected to import 130 MT of non-coking coal and 56 MT is coking coal. The country imported 210MT of coal in 2021-22 fiscal.

"India is likely to import 172 MT of coal in 2024-25, 173 MT in 2027-28, and 170 MT in 2029-30. The country imported 215 MT of coal in FY'21 and 249 MT of coal in FY'20," said the ministry.

As the country is facing an immense coal crisis, which is causing power shortages, the government directed CIL, India's largest coal producer, to import coal from abroad. Subsequently, CIL, for the first time issued two back-to-back international tenders to import the dry fuel on behalf of the state generating companies (gencos) and independent power plants (IPPs). To build up stock, Coal India floated tender for 2.416 MT of coal. The company again floated two international tenders to import 6 MT for the next one year. "In a first ever, CIL on Wednesday floated an international competitive bidding e-tender, seeking bids for import of 2.416 million tonnes (MTs) of coal," said CIL in a statement.

On import, Coal India said it is trying to augment the production to meet the domestic demand. The import of the coal is a step towards a state of readiness to combat futuristic coal supply crunch if any, the statement said.

TECH JOBS

Amid technology gloom, employees hanging by a thread

SAMIKSHA GOEL @ New Delhi

MANY IT companies have now gone for revocation of rolled out offers, creating waves in the global tech ecosystem. The mood has turned sombre as employees with offer letters in hand are worried if their offers would be honoured.

Under such circumstance, fear of getting unemployed haunt them."Everything just crumbled down within the two-minute phone call that I received," penned a LinkedIn user in a post, talking about their job offer at Twitter being revoked.

Twitter CEO had earlier mentioned that offers will be rescinded in a tweet and recently crypto exchange Coinbase also announced its plans of extending hiring freeze and rescinding rolled out offers. "This is not a decision we make lightly, but is necessary to ensure we are only growing in the highest-priority areas," it said. Several other companies have also been rolling back offers.

Social media is flooded with posts from users who were set to join these companies but have now started the job hunt again. One of the people whose offers have been rescinded said, he was ready to join the company in a week but now is unemployed and immediately needs to find a job. "I have a home loan as well; It's like I woke up to a nightmare," he said. The worst off are the H-1B workers (Which are mainly Indian and Chinese) in the USA. A senior engineer with a global tech company, on the condition of anonymity, told TNIE because of hiring freezes, the anxiety and stress is palpable, particularly among junior engineers, fresh out of college. "A layoff in this environment is a disaster if you'd have to find a job in 60 days."

As per the regulations, H-1B workers have a 60-day grace period to stay in the USA legally without employment. They need to find new work within 60 days or leave the country. The senior engineer, who mentors other immigrant engineers in the US, said. "It takes a month to prepare for interviews. In a hiring freeze environment, it becomes exponentially harder to find jobs, particularly since you're competing against your coworkers who are also most-likely laid off."

Private equity investments reach $7.2 billion in May

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

Deals of the month of May

While overall deal volumes grew by over 50%, values jumped over double, recording the second-highest monthly values in the last four years. Last month saw India's largest-ever acquisition in the infrastructure and materials space - Adani Group acquisition of Holcim's Indian assets for $10.5 billion. The month also witnessed Larsen & Toubro Infotech and Mindtree's merger

PRIVATE Equity investments saw record values and volumes in May at $7.2 billion across 150 deals.

This was a 169% rise in deal values, driven by two multi-billion-dollar deals and an 81% increase in deal volumes driven by small-ticket deals equalling 72% of total PE deal volumes, as per the Grant Thornton Bharat Dealtracker Report. India Inc has recorded 190 deals worth $19.1 billion in May 2022.

While overall deal volumes grew by over 50%, values jumped over double, recording the second-highest monthly values in the last four years. Last month also saw the country's largest-ever acquisition in the infrastructure and materials space - Adani Group acquisition of Holcim's Indian assets for $10.5 billion. The month also witnessed Larsen & Toubro Infotech and Mindtree's merger. Shanthi Vijetha, Partner, Growth, Grant Thornton Bharat said, "Start-up, e-commerce and IT, led the deal volumes for the month, while manufacturing, media and entertainment and energy topped the overall value." Last month recorded 40 M&A deals aggregating to $11.9 billion. With 27% of M&A deal volumes, the start-up sector continued to dominate the deal activity with 11 deals valued at $70 million, the report added.

Erling Haaland said his transfer to Manchester City from Borussia Dortmund is a "great move" for his career as the Norwegian aims to fire the Premier League champions to more silverware. The 21-year-old's move was officially completed on Monday with Haaland penning a five-year contract. "This is a proud day for me and my family. I have always watched City and have loved doing so in recent seasons."

MONEY IN THE BANK

Record price for IPL media rights, BCCI to make over ₹46K crore

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

EVER since it came into existence in 2008, the Indian Premier League (IPL) has been a cash-cow for the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI). And as the e-auction for the IPL media rights for the next five year cycle went into Tuesday, the Brand IPL has once again established itself as a money-spinner across all sports around the world.

The Package A, which is for television rights, has been sold for ₹23,575 crore (₹57.5 crore per game) and the Package B for digital rights has been grabbed for ₹20,500 (₹50 crore per game), taking the combined tally to a humongous ₹44,075 crore. With the bidding for Package C (non-exclusive digital content) and Package D underway, the BCCI has overall earned more than ₹46,000 crore, which is almost two-and-a-half times more than the previous package. For the 2018-22 period, Disney Star paid ₹16.347.5 crore.

While the BCCI is yet to announce the winner for each package, it is understood that Package A and B have gone to different parties. According to reliable sources, Sony and Disney Star were in for a strong battle for Packag A with the former believed to be more aggressive. In Package B, a new comer is believed to be ahead.

Set at a base price of ₹49 crore per game, while the television package remained the expensive one at ₹58 crore per match, it is the digital space which has taken giant steps in terms of growth. In the previous media rights auction held in 2017, the highest bid the BCCI received for digital rights was from Facebook, which had valued it at ₹3,900 crore. However, this time it touched a whopping ₹20,500 crore thanks to the stiff competition. With Package C also witnessing heavy competition, the overall value of Package B & C, which are only for digital, could match or even cross the television's per match value.

Analysts attributed the fact that digital space gives them an opportunity to grow as the main reason why there has been a steady increase in the value. "When it comes to digital, there are quite a lot of OTT players who are looking for content. It was expected that Package B will have more suitors. But from a number perspective, from dollar/rupee per match perspective, I still had belief that linear (television) will be bigger in this cycle. Beyond 2027, digital could be bigger because linear would have died by then as it is not growing," Santosh N, managing partner, D and P Advisory said.

With Hotstar showing that the Brand IPL will help in positioning itself among the leading OTT platforms in India, that there was intense bidding for Package B isn't surprising. Other platforms have taken a leaf out of Hotstar's strategy, which saw a steady growth in last five years. "The ability to make investments and buy content is more in digital space than in linear space. It is more like a new-age tech company. Most of the start-ups today focus more on growth than profitability. If you draw the same analogy, an OTT platform is willing to add subscribers today and get content. Even if it is at the cost of profitability, they will be making that investment. From that perspective, maybe yes, it is slightly overpaid, but they are looking at adding content and subscribers," Santosh added.

Given how big the numbers are, one question invariably comes up. Will the winning parties be able to take the returns. Santosh, who has studied brand IPL since its inception, has his doubts. "We are talking about a huge sum. Let's assume one party has all the rights, and they are paying ₹8.5k to 9 cr to the BCCI per annum. Going by 2021-22 numbers, ad revenue won't be more than ₹3,500 crore. Now even if we include subscription revenue, even in the best of the cases somebody will be able to make ₹4-5k crore per season. Then you are paying nearly 9 crore to BCCI and other costs involved, there will be a huge gap. Individually also they will be making losses. That was expected. At 3.5 crore, Star was not able to recover. With 8.5 crore, it is a huge sum. It will be surprising if they actually get the returns," Santosh added.

Javelin ace Neeraj set for season opener in Finland

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

BEGINNING a season is always tricky. It has its share of anxiety and challenges. If you happen to be an Olympic champion from India, the pressure would be immense as every performance would be scrutinised to the hilt. Neeraj Chopra knows that along with the Tokyo 2020 Olympic gold, he has added a few ounces of pressure. Yet, with his inimitable style, he has managed to thwart those demons.

On Tuesday, Neeraj would be competing for the first time since the final of the Tokyo 2020 Games on August 7 last year. The field at the Paavo Nurmi Games in Turku, Finland, is as daunting as the one in the Japanese capital. Grenada's Anderson Peters is the season leader with a throw of 93.07m in the Doha Diamond League. Andreas Hofmann of Germany, who cleared 92.06m in 2018, has a season's best of 87.32m. Tokyo 2020 silver medallist Jakub Vadlejch of the Czech Republic has thrown 90.88s in Doha. London and Rio Olympic Games medallist Keshorn Walcott of Trinidad and Tobago, too, has entered. Julian Weber of Germany with the season's best of 89.54m is also in the fray.

In an interaction last month, Neeraj had talked about his fitness and he said he should be primed for the first competition of the season. In the first one or two competitions, he would be fine with throws around 87m. "In the first one or two international events, anything around 87-88m would be good," he had said. According to his team, he is feeling fine. More than the field, it's the weather that could be a little challenging. There is a possibility of rain and for any javelin thrower, such a condition is not ideal.

Another high for Aishwarya, shatters NR in triple jump

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

THERE'S something about Aishwarya B. She's confident and has a way with words, even if it's in English, her third language. She is petite but has an air of confidence.

Height wise (1.59metre), she was probably one of the smaller athletes in the triple jump final on day four of the national inter-state championships in Chennai. Yet, just as her coach, BP Aiyappa, had confidently advertised on Sunday, Aishwarya set a new national record in the final.

Her 14.14m, the best jump by an Asian athlete in 2022, eclipsed the previous national mark set by Mayookha Johny (14.11m in 2011). In essence, she almost jumped nine times her height to win gold. On Tuesday, she will have the chance for a rare double as she's qualified for the long jump final as well.

Listen to the way the 24-year-old — she turns 25 on Wednesday — talks and you walk away with a sense that she's making up for lost time. "All of us are born to achieve something," she said after the event.

Lost time because her progress was stalled after she tore her Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL). Rehab followed with Aiyappa, husband of 2010 Asian Games heptathlon bronze medallist, Pramila, playing a big role.

Since then, the duo have focused on capitalising her 'speed' and 'explosive ability' — Aishwarya kept repeating these three words.

When she was asked about her training to produce results like this, she said that she does a lot of workouts focusing on her hamstring and calf muscles to further enhance her two gifts. "She's a natural," Aiyappa, who looked on proudly when Aishwarya was clutching her medal, said. This, of course, is not her first gold this year.

At the Indian Grand Prix in Trivandrum in March 2022, she set a new personal best of 13.94m. If that was her serving notice of her talents — it was second best all-time by an Indian woman — her mark at Chennai was her underlining her credentials as someone with potential for more.

But it hasn't always been this easy for the Bengalurean who has finished her B.Com. For instance, during lockdown, Aiyappa and she had to travel more than 25 kms one way everyday to practice. Both Aiyappa and Aishwarya said that as they did not get the permission to train at Kanteerava Stadium — the place where she usually trains — they had to resort to travelling everyday to keep in shape.

Noteworthy results followed on the national stage including a long jump gold at the open nationals in September 2021. Her 6.52m was then her personal best, something that is now 6.73m. On Tuesday, she has a chance of displacing Anju Bobby George's mark of 6.83m. "I will try (to beat that)," she said with a smile.

There was also a mic drop moment. "This (the 14.14m) is my first national record." The inference is clear. She believes she can rewrite more records going forward.

Meanwhile, in the last event on Monday, India quarter-miler, Amoj Jacob pulled up and had to be stretchered off while running the anchor leg for India A. It looked like he had done some damage to his hamstring.

Baranica's coach is Milber

Tamil Nadu's Baranica Elangovan, who won gold in the women's pole vault on the opening day of the competition, trains under Milber at Skyvault Academy, Chennai. A report that was published on Saturday said she trains under Surekha Renjith. The error is regretted.

Penultimate contest

With teams ready for the Ranji Trophy semifinals that are set to begin on Tuesday in Bengaluru, a look at what to expect...

MUMBAI VS UP

While both teams dominated the proceedings in their respective quarterfinal ties at Alur, one could say that there couldn't be two contrasting contests than the two. Mumbai outplayed Uttarakhand in all departments. They amassed over 600 runs in their first essay and bundled their rivals for 114 and 69. Uttar Pradesh had a challenging encounter against Karnataka for the better part of the match before the latter's batting crumbled, thanks to Saurabh Kumar's spin web. They came back stronger after conceding the first innings lead to beat the hosts in the fourth innings. Both teams will be high on confidence, but on Tuesday, conditions, too, would come into play as they will play in the Just Cricket Ground for the first time this season.

BENGAL VS MP

Bengal have been the team to beat so far this season, performing consistently under pressure starting from the group stage matches. They continued the trend in the knockouts as well bullying Jharkhand by putting up 773 runs in the first innings. Madhya Pradesh, too, have had a well-rounded campaign so far, outdoing Punjab in the quarterfinals based on first innings lead. For them, IPL stars Rajat Patidar and Kumar Kartikeya have been among the stand out performers in the last week. But for MP to give a strong contention against Bengal, they will have to bring out their A game in all three departments. Otherwise, the star-studded Bengal side, led by Abhimanyu Easwaran, could potentially overpower them, especially with their batters who are in top form.

NATURE TRIPPIN'

More and more Bengalureans are taking to nature camps to break away from back to work and school life

The idea of a nature photography camp is to educate people about the wildlife we have in the state. It's necessary to know how to handle the animals instead of scaring them

—Suhas Premkumar, photographer

ANILA KURIAN

SCHOOLS have reopened and most employees are back to working in office but the yearning to be one with nature hasn't gone away. Bringing back the love for nature camps are some of these organisers in the city who are not just exploring the biodiversity here but are also exploring the Western Ghats.

Nerdbird, a learning experiences space for children, recently organised a monsoon nature camp led by Dr Seshadri KS, a scientist at IISC whose work includes having discovered a new frog species. Speaking to CE, co-founder Chandini Chhabra, says, "This time, it was a frog edition with Dr Seshadri. We also had Vidisha Kulkarni, a biotechnologist who studies birds and amphibians, along with a team of naturalists and educators at EcoEdu — Ulhas Anand and TS Srinivasa. Parents and children had a blast at the camp."

Some of the takeaways from the camp were to experience the outdoors and gain knowledge of birds, frogs, butterflies, trees and other wildlife. "We had games, activities and group discussions during those two days. They also got to learn the basics of camping and learnt how to start a nature camp at school or in their neighbourhood," Chhabra explains, adding that shared tented cottages or alpine tents and binoculars were offered.

Taking nature lovers to the Western Ghats is photographer and filmmaker Suhas Premkumar. "This weekend, we organised a rainforest wilderness and photography camp at Sharavathi, the rain forest of Jog Falls. Apart from the great view, we also saw Malabar giant squirrels, Malabar parakeets, woodpeckers, hornbills and bee-eaters, among others," he explains, adding this nature camp was also for non-photographers.

Accommodation is part of the package but visitors had to arrange their own transport. "The idea is to educate people about the wildlife we have in the state. More importantly, it's necessary to know how to handle the animals instead of scaring them. During the photography camp, we'll not only introduce them to the techniques of photography but also educate them about the different types of snakes, mammals, birds and amphibians co-existing there," Premkumar explains, adding that more such camps will be rolled out soon.

But if you don't want to go too far away, camping near Bannerghatta area is an option too. Offering both medium and high-budget camping experiences is Camp Monk located near Bannerghatta National Park. Amit Shetty, CEO and co-founder, says, "We see people from all walks of life either pitch a tent in our space or opt for the glamping stations we have. There's a lovely lake nearby and the space is filled with nature which they use to explore. Many even bring their office work and take calls from the tents."

The pet sanctuaries and the national park is a major attraction for nature campers. "Prani — The Pet Sanctuary is a popular stop for many of our visitors. They get to hangout with the various animals available there and also get to pet them. Children and elders enjoy the experience equally. This is a great way for city-goers to enjoy a break during the weekend, unwind and refresh with nature," Shetty says.

With her 'box of books', photojournalist turned editor Anshika Varma will be in the city this week

ISHRATH MUBEEN

MEET Anshika Varma, a photography enthusiast who is taking her love for photography to the next level. A photojournalist turned editor, curator and publisher, Varma founded Offset Projects, an artist-led initiative in New Delhi. She's bringing her box of books, Offset Pitara to Bangalore International Centre, Domlur, from June 17 to 24. The event will also include workshops, talks, and the launch of her first book.

Offset Pitara is where Varma carries her steel trunks full of books on photography to events and shares her collection with bibliophiles to read and explore. The box travels with Varma across several events and venues.

Started in 2018, Offset Projects and Pitara are initiatives that aim to connect an individual and their environment through photography. During the pandemic, they would have virtual meet-ups on a weekly basis featuring artistes from South Asia to discuss what photography means to them. "This led us to bring out a reconstructed book called Guftgu that features 10 practitioners from India, Nepal and Pakistan, each with a chapter of their own," she explains.

The chapters in the book cover political, emotional, psychological and historical topics through the lens of photography. For example, the historian and curator from Nepal, Diwas Raja KC, quotes photography as data to assimilate histories together. Cheryl Mukherji, a diaspora artist, talks about ancestry and inheritance as she looks through the archives of her mother's images along with powerful texts she has written.

An amalgamation of her curiosity to study cultural and social evolution with storytelling, Varma's work highlights the emotional connection between an individual and their surroundings.

"I always had access to books when I travelled for work. And as a bibliophile, I began exploring photography and education. I learned about the possibilities of the medium," she says.

Varma did not receive formal education in photography though. She says, "There are very few institutions in my region that teach you what it means to take photography as a language. So, a lot of my training actually happened on the field and I learnt on the go," says the founder of Offset Projects.

She began carrying her books on photography to workshops, schools and art therapy programmes and realised that people loved the idea of interpreting texts by themselves.

"I witnessed a strange feeling of ownership that the readers felt when they held the book. With time, I started to explore the capacity of a book as a language. I set out with the Pitara, a steel trunk with all my books to book festivals, parks and schools, and watched people sit with photography for hours. They read about the journeys of photographers, and that proved to be a conduit that established a relationship between the photographer and the reader," Varma says.

CELEBRITY DESIGNER MEGHA KAPOOR'S LATEST COLLECTION IS ALL ABOUT HAND-EMBROIDERED WORKS WHICH SHE CALLS EDGY AND EXPERIMENTAL

Carefully threaded

MONIKA MONALISA

WITH a deep and restless ocean and a blue sky in the backdrop, actor Kubbra Sait sizzled in a colourful bralet and tie and dye skirt in Maldives. It's the creation by fashion designer Megha Kapoor.

Lately, the city-based designer has been experimenting with different kinds of embroideries. In this particular collection, she focused on different materials. "I did a 20-meter tie and dye of different colours and put it in a panel so that it looked like a rainbow. The bralet has an elaborate embroidery using resin stones. I wanted to use the resin stones, which are usually made for coasters and jewellery, as a design element," says Kapoor.

Sait had also donned another piece designed by Kapoor. "I worked on embroidery with beads. Beads have an elaborate use in jewellery, so I made an entire piece out of it," says Kapoor, adding that she wanted a wooden and rusty effect to give a different vibe.

Apart from these, Kapoor's embroidery designs can be seen in her Indian designs as well. "Many of my previous collections had a western feel to them. I wanted to do something which is Indian and showcased the royal effect. Before I started working on it, I had imagined a temple kind of set up so I decided to play with black and gold," says Kapoor, who is known for playing with sequin but she worked with embroidery instead.

She usually takes two months to embroider one lehenga and makes sure all the thread works are secured. "Embroideries are a little tricky because the whole design would be interlinked through a knot. I have an excellent set of karigars. I make sure the embroidery is well-knotted and secured correctly. I try not to take shortcuts in these kinds of works," explains Kapoor, who usually prefers the karigars working from her studio. The best part about her collection is that the colours can be customised. "There have been a few orders on it but people usually customise the colour. Even in those cases, I keep the embroidery style. Recently, I worked on a blue and green banarasi," says she.

FIT BIT

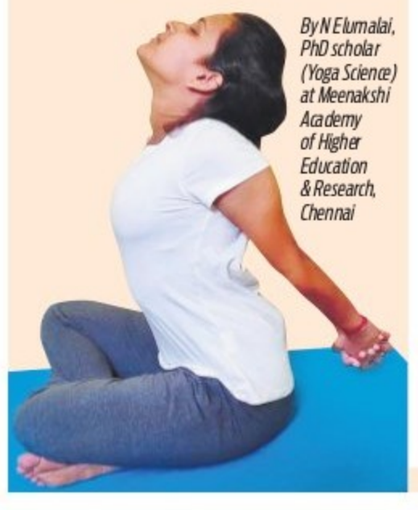
SUKHASANA BADDHA HASTA

(EASY POSE BOUND HANDS)

It is a beginner level stretch to help develop the mobility of the shoulders. It can be done to release tensions in the neck by giving a gentle stretch in the neck and gazing upwards in the final position. Stretching the shoulders can feel good, especially to professionals who spend long hours hunched over a computer or children who slouch over doing their chores/sports. Hence, it is included in a Therapeutic Yoga Sequence.

STEPS

- Sit in an easy cross leg position, like in Sukhasana (Easy Pose). Your pubic bone and the cross of your shins should be in line.
- Keep your ankles flexed a little so that your feet are on their outside edges, perpendicular to the floor.
- Your head, neck, and back should be straight. Draw your abdomen softly inward and upward. Roll your shoulders back and take the arms at your back as you inhale.
- Exhale, stretch your fingers, and interlock the fingers behind your back. Keep your chest up and open. Pull your shoulder blades down and back. While you are comfortable here, move your arms away from the body. Then, stretch your neck up, find your gaze towards the ceiling as you inhale.
- Stay here stretching the shoulders to hold the arms with interlocked fingers for 4-6 deep breaths as you keep your eyes closed and focus on breathing. To release, exhale and loosen the arms and relax.



By N Elumalai, PhD scholar (Yoga Science) at Meenakshi Academy of Higher Education & Research, Chennai

BENEFITS

- Stretches shoulders, biceps-triceps, arms, wrists, neck, and pectoralis muscle, lengthens the spine, and strengthens the upper back muscles.
- Improves breathing by lifting the ribs and creating space for lungs to expand.
- Strengthens muscles surrounding chest to enhance the appearance.
- Those with cervical issues, chronic neck and shoulder pain will find relief.
- Great warm-up for swimmers, tennis, badminton, javelin throw players, bowlers, labourers, artists, and homemakers.
- Gives great range of motion to the arms and builds strength and support in the rotator cuff muscles.

LIMITATIONS

- People with shoulder, wrists, elbow, knee, hip or ankle injuries/surgeries should avoid.
- Instability due to rotator cuff tears, tendonitis, arthritis, or any pain in the shoulders, avoid shoulder stretch.
- People with lower back or knee issues can use the cushion for better comfort.

After the video of a fusion performance by a choreographer trio from Zurich went viral, Bengaluru-based artistes have mixed feelings

DANCING QUEENS

A still from the viral video

CHIRRAG GUHA

IF you've been on social media lately, a dance video creating storms around the internet is something you might have chanced upon. Zurich-based choreographer trio Usha Jey and Co. are seen dancing to Uproar by Lil Wayne, fusing both Indian classical and western dance forms. While many are sharing the video with positive comments, a few from the industry aren't too fond of the fusion performance.

Having been exposed only to the dance form in its purest form, or at the most, semi-classical, dancer Susmitha Menon found the video quite surprising. "Seeing the dance form fused with other western dance forms was a whole new experience in itself. When exposed to such a concoction, it felt weird," she says.

A firm believer in progress and moving with the times and the new age, Menon says, "Watching fusion dances as such felt like a step in the right direction. It creates a new platform for the dance form, creating opportunities for it to gain a wider audience globally."

Chandrashekhar from Fusion Studio agrees. "It is a wonderful mixture of classical and hip-hop, a beautiful blend of simple steps. The performers have perfectly incorporated both the dance forms at the right beats," he says.

According to Shekhar, mastering different forms of dance and bringing them together is a skill that needs a lot of practice and dedication. "It completely depends on the performer since he/she has to be good at both the dances, especially classical," he says.

Aastha Khera, a freestyle and contemporary dancer, says, "The blend of modern and traditional dance forms have been portrayed so elegantly on a global platform and accepted with so much passion. Such representation opens up dozens of new possibilities for aspiring dancers."

Charles Ma

The video has elicited some negative criticism as well, from young and old alike. Professional dancer and teacher Charles Ma, who has done many such fusions, believes that for it to be a good performance, it should remain under the dance form's framework. "I'm open to experimentation. I've done fusion as well but it should stay under the framework of the dance origin. Many young dancers have diluted the dance over the last 10 years," he says.

Ma believes that evolution is necessary for all fields. "We should not be closed to ideas. However, this dance is not aesthetic. My gurus taught me about the dance being dignified and aesthetic. This fusion lacks the dignity and aesthetics of raw bharatanatyam," he says.

Himadyuthi Deshpande, a younger yet experienced dancer, is of a similar opinion. "For me, it is essential to abide by the rules of classical dance, while at the same time exploring your creativity within the boundaries of the dance form. The very reason why bharatanatyam is called a classical dance is that it has set rules which also gives the dancer freedom to practice manodharma, where there's individual freedom in choreography and performance, but within the framework of the dance form," she says.

Monkeying around with the invasion of Malleswaram

OPEN SPACE
Nirad Mudur
Deputy Resident Editor
niradgmudur@newindianexpress.com

MALLESWARAM is being invaded. It's an invasion by invaders attempting reclamation of the land that once was their home. And there's nothing much the residents can do about it.

But this invasion is unlike the Russian one in Ukraine. It involves no tanks, artillery, machine guns or missiles — just the invaders, with not even a shred of clothing on them to call it a uniform.

Recently, a resident standing on his balcony noticed what seemed like a rope hanging from the chajja above, and instinctively grabbed it. To his utter shock the rope withdrew itself, and in its place came the face of its bewildered owner, a huge monkey with its fangs bared and shrieking at the man in his face. Shocked out of his wits, the resident took to his heels in panic, hurriedly closing the balcony door from inside and screaming alerts to his family members and neighbours to lock all doors and windows. An entire troop of monkeys had descended on the building. Some residents caught unawares reported being "held hostage" by the simians in their own homes. Neatly kept fruits in bowls vanished, leaving peels and leftovers strewn all over the floor, even as the inhabitants tried every trick under the roof to lure the monkeys out. Some succeeded, some didn't. The latter had more interesting tales of destruction to narrate than the former, who only boasted about the methods used to get the monkeys out of their homes.

Troops of monkeys are ruling over Malleswaram, and the current invasion is just one among many that have occurred in this area.

Just a few decades ago, Malleswaram was a forested area. This once-forested area is home to the famous Kadu Malleshwara Temple. 'Kadu' means 'forest' in Kannada, indicating that Malleswaram was once a forest. The temple, built in the 17th century by the Maratha king Shivaji Bhonsle's brother Venkoji, was once surrounded by a thick forest which was the abode of the monkeys. With devotees thronging the temple with offerings of fruits and other edibles, it turned out to be a major attraction for monkeys who generously received their share. The forests are now replaced by concrete structures. Malleswaram — planned in the dying years of the 19th century following the Great Plague — still retains a fairly thick green cover. But the expanding human habitation and increased residential and commercial activities displaced the simians.

ILLUSTRATION: SOURAV ROY

Humans have an inherent capability to accomplish this feat — displace another species, if not completely render it extinct. William McGuire Bryson, an American-British author on topics including travel, English language and science, in his book A Short History of Almost Everything, cites University of Chicago palaeontologist David Raup, who estimated that the average rate of extinction of species throughout biological history on earth due to human interference is one species every four years. It is also estimated separately that up to 90 per cent of the species that ever lived on earth are now extinct, and that the rate of extinction speeded up drastically with the arrival of humans.

The monkeys will not go that way though. They are resilient. That resilience is on display today. They will not give up.

In June 2021, the Karnataka High Court directed the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) and the forest department to devise a plan to shift monkeys back to their natural habitat. How far that will succeed is anybody's guess. This used to be their natural habitat once upon a time. The Russians will go back home from Ukraine, but the monkeys will not from Malleswaram. The invasions will continue, and Malleswaramites will have to live with them.

AS the mother of a daughter, I'm always looking for stories with female protagonists that go beyond your standard princess fare. So, when my tweenager asked me why Tay-Tay was releasing Taylor's versions of all her earlier albums, I couldn't help but lay out it for her in as dramatic a way as possible. Taylor Swift's remarkable story and willingness to stand up against music industry bullies has made her an icon for musicians everywhere to rally around.

It all started with the teenage girl who moved to Nashville at the age of 14 to pursue her dreams and was signed to a big bad record label. She put out many great albums, topped the charts, sold-out stadiums, and did all the things little girls who want to be superstars aspire to do.

When her recording contract was up, she moved to another label, which was neither surprising nor acrimonious. At some later point, it came to be known that Taylor was trying to buy back the rights to her master recordings, but her old label wasn't willing to sell it to her unless she was willing to stay at the label longer. In all fairness, most record deals do allow the record label to own the master recordings made by their artistes, but in the case of an artiste like Taylor Swift who has the means to be able to buy them back, if they were for sale, she should have been able to procure them. Instead, her label was sold to another media mogul, Scooter Braun, and his company Ithaca holdings. At this point, she openly cried foul at her catalog being sold not to her, but to someone she didn't trust. For most other artistes, the story would've ended here, and musicians would've sadly shaken their heads about 'labels', and 'contracts' and how it's never really fair.

What Taylor did next was something that has created waves in the global music industry, and inspired artistes from Olivia Rodrigo to Bryan Adams to follow her lead. Since she wrote the songs, she simply re-recorded all her songs, thereby creating new masters and releasing her music again. In this process, she has not only managed to shed light on unfair deals that artistes have suffered through but she's also taken her power back. Many organisations have come out in support of her, with iHeartRADIO even stating that they will play only Taylor's versions of recordings and not the originals.

So next time you queue up Tay-Tay on a playlist, take a second to decide which version you want to play.

Director Kiranraj is overwhelmed by the tremendous response to his latest directorial venture

777 Charlie weekend box office collection: Rakshit Shetty's film makes ₹27 crore

A SHARADHAA

77 Charlie, which was released in a record number of theatres on June 10, has been receiving an overwhelming response from the audience. The film, starring Rakshit Shetty and a dog named Charlie, has approximately earned over 27 crores worldwide. The film, which explores the human-animal bond, is packed with emotions and looks like Charlie and Rakshit Shetty have won many hearts.

Director Kiranraj, who is happy with the outcome, says that the five years of their hard work have finally paid off.

"Leave alone the box office number aside. I am glad the film is doing well because of the family audience — even on Monday. Also, the Telugu distributors are happy with 777 Charlie's weekend performance. They are expecting it to do well this week too. Despite the release of three Malayalam films in Kerala,the film is doing well in God's own country. There's a good response from Tamil Nadu as well. In Pune both Kannada and Hindi versions are doing great."

The digital rights of the film's Kannada version was sold to Voot, and the director says there is a growing demand for the rights of the other versions of the film.

When asked whether a sequel to 777 Charlie is on cards, he says, "Right now, I don't have such plans. However, a sequel to 777 Charlie can be done anytime. Right now, I have a few other scripts ready. I will work on them once I am completely out of 777 Charlie."

777 Charlie, produced under Paramvah Studios banner, also stars Sangeetha Sringeri, Raj B Shetty, and Bobby Simha in prominent roles. It has music by Nobin Paul and cinematography by Aravind Kashyap.
